CHEF PAOLO AT MARCO'S RESTAURANT – PIZZERIA

Yes Chef Paolo can certainly iron out your problem of deciding where to eat tonight or in fact where to have lunch. Unsurprisingly Marco's restaurant in Thappraya road is attracting a great deal of attention from the "ladies who lunch". Open seven days a week from 12 PM until 12 AM. You can choose from the extensive menu of quality dishes or daily specials and if you want that something extra special you can even order directly from Paolo yourself.

Marco's Restaurant can even cater for large groups with their private dining area upstairs. In fact very recently Paolo provided a unique dinner party for a customer who's brief was to provide a sumptuous five course meat menu. Nothing is too much trouble for this award winning chef. Just give him 3-4 days notice in order to liaise with you about your bespoke menu and purchase the necessary ingredients - you will not be disappointed!

Regular readers of the Pattaya Trader will know that Chef Paolo won the popular television show the Iron Chef - you can read all about this online at www.pattayatrader.com. Click the online magazine and then select December 2017 to find the article all about his celebrity status.

THE THAI GARDEN RESORT RECEIVES EIGHT CONSECUTIVE YEARS OF EXCELLENT AWARD

HolidayCheck

GOLD AWARD

HolidayCheck is one of the largest online hotels portals in Germany for hotel bookings and certified hotel reviews from actual guests. Their very special 'EIGHT YEARS OF CONSECUTIVE EXCELLENCE AWARD' has been bestowed to the Thai Garden based on the resort's performance over the last eight years. It now ranks Thai Garden Resort among the most popular hotels in the world in its category. In the whole of Thailand, only 6 hotels have received this award and in Pattaya only the Thai Garden Resort has been awarded.

Mr. Rene Pisters, the General Manager of the Resort for the past 17 years would like to take this opportunity to thank all his team members, as it is only because of their service and dedication that the resort received this award. It is a fantastic team effort, which can only be achieved when the entire team (in this case 160 employees) are motivated at all times to provide excellent service towards their guests. The General Manager would also like to give full credit to the guests who have stayed at the Thai Garden Resort over the years and published their reviews. It is due to these reviews that the resort has been so highly ranked and achieved this award.

Finally receiving this award has only been made possible because of the willingness of the owning company to continue to invest in the future of the hotel. They also continue to give their support and trust to the management and the team members.

PIZZAS AND A MOVIE NIGHT WHAT A GREAT IDEA - ESPECIALLY WHEN THE PIZZAS ARE FROM FIRE AND STONE

I don't think 2017 was such a great year for films - with a couple of exceptions there were just too many remakes and films with "people flying around". Yet this year - just before the lead up to The Oscars some really great films have materialised:

Darkest Hour, Three Billboards Outside Ebbing Missouri and The Post to name just three.

The beauty of well written, well acted and well crafted films like these, is that unlike the big 3D adventures and spectacular movies like Black Panther, they are the type of films that can be enjoyed at home.

I also really enjoy watching the award ceremonies themselves from the Golden Globes, BAFTAs right through to the Academy Awards they are tremendous fun especially if you are with friends cheering on your favourites. So what better way to view than to gather around the TV and get a good home delivery pizza ?

Fire and Stone I'm very pleased to say can deliver their delicious pizzas right to your door. You can choose a Medium 12" or even go for the Large 14"

I would definitely recommend their Quattro Formaggi because you can absolutely taste the quality of the four different cheeses used, no cheap processed slices here. Also their Salami Piccante is just that, great and peppery and piccante with the mozzarella tomato and pepperoni winning combination going down extremely well with a beer or two !

A new one on me was the BBQ Chicken this was extremely saucy and delicious with plenty of shredded chicken and onion. All the pizzas arriving fresh and warm with bases that were just right, not too thin and crunchy but not too soggy either.

Fire and Stone are at 1/13 Pattaya Klang, (right next to Alibaba) should you feel like collecting but you don't have to you can call through your delivery on 038 427 011. Or even go to their Facebook page @fireandstonepizzeria to place your order, see the menu, and check out any promotions.

These delicious pizzas are also available via the Door To Door delivery service:

<https://www.door2doorpattaya.com/>

Or call 038 720 222

So what are you waiting for ? Have a Pizza and a Movie night real soon !

COMING TO THE SMALL SCREEN

Jessica Jones Season two

In the second season Jessica takes on a new case after the events surrounding her encounter with Killgrave. Based on a Marvel comic book character, Jessica Jones is a retired superhero who now works as a Private Investigator. Of course, she often uses her powers when needed to get out of a tricky situation or fight. She likes to have a drink and isn't shy about telling people what she thinks. Jones was also in the Netflix series the Defenders.

A Series of Unfortunate Events Season two.

Based on the children's novel Lemony Snicket's A Series of Unfortunate Events is a black comedy-drama. When a mysterious fire kills their parents, the Baudelaire children are placed into the care of their distant relative Count Olaf, an actor who is determined to claim the family fortune for himself. Following Olaf's failed attempt and his plot being exposed, the Baudelaire children set out to elude Olaf and uncover the mystery behind a secret society from their parents' past. This season consists of ten episodes adapting books five through nine of the novel series and a confirmed third season will complete the final four books.

Love season 3

The final season of this comedy drama comes out this month. Set in Los Angeles, the show follows Mickey (played by Gillian Jacobs) and Gus (Paul Rust), two lovelorn 30-somethings as they try to make their relationship work. She's a producer on a talk radio show, he's an aspiring script writer who works as an on-set tutor for a child actor. Co-created by Judd Apatow (who wrote and directed Knocked Up and the 40-year-old Virgin), it's bittersweet and brilliantly written.

Recommended Series The Sopranos

I'm probably preaching to the converted here. And I would imagine that most people have seen this series. But if by some chance you've missed this, you really need to get hold of it and prepare for some serious binge watching. Here is the premise; a New Jersey mob Boss Tony Soprano, deals with personal and professional issues, that affect his mental state and lead him to seek professional psychiatric counselling. There are six seasons and events get progressively darker as the series goes on. This is the series that raised the bar for what a quality television drama could be. The episodes are so good as to be equal to or even better than some movies based on the same subject. And the performances from James Gandolfini and Edie Falco are possibly the best ever seen in a Television drama. As you can tell I'm a fan, and found it very hard to resist watching one episode after another.

PATTAYA INTERNATIONAL MUSIC FESTIVAL

Always great fun look out for music events small and large springing up on beach road and all over Pattaya throughout the month of March.

BURAPA BIKERS FESTIVAL 2018

The 21st annual week long bikers' festival always culminates with a two day extravaganza at the Chaiyapruk Stadium. This year thousands of visitors experienced the wonderful array of shops, food and drink stalls, Cowboys and Indians, and two nights of live music on the two big stages. This festival is in the top five bikers' festivals in the world but is unique in its self-policing policy with never a hint of trouble and is generally regarded as the nearest you can get to the 1969 'Woodstock' experience in terms of peace and love.

Incredible looking motorbikes, old and new, abound around the arena with horses and other side shows making a treat for all the family. Also this year the range of music had broadened from the classic Rock & Roll tunes played by Greek Rock star George Gakis to a Beach Boys/60s review by Endless Summer, lead by Barry Upton. Another festival favourite the band Goober Gun delat out some of their own brand of hard rock and there were female rocksters in the band Syteria. Many more Thai and international acts pounded out their music on both the Rock and King's Stage creating a superb atmosphere full of fun.

One of the organisers, the Jesters own Richie Rhodes, said that every year more and more people across the world learn of this unique event and he is always finding new acts that want to come and play here in Pattaya. It gets bigger year on year.

A very colourful feature can be seen on Pattaya People television followed by a series of 'backstage' interviews . Another great Pattaya event.

MARCH GAME RELEASES

Before I start on the releases for March, I would just like to forewarn you that game releases have a habit of slipping back. This can be for many reasons, I just don't want you to be disappointed if something you're looking forward to gets delayed. Personally, I prefer this instead over a game being rushed out full of bugs. Now on with the show.:

Since I started this column I had no idea just how many roleplaying games are getting released every month. Considering each takes several hours to finish, who's out there playing them? I guess people wait for their own favourite. This month we have "Ni no Kuni II: Revenant Kingdom", "Shining Resonance Refrain", "Atelier Lydie & Suelle: The Alchemists and the Mysterious Paintings", you get the idea. However, one release really caught my eye.

"Fantasy IV" coming to the PC.

This release is significant as for years the Final Fantasy series has only been available on consoles. I also remember Final Fantasy 7 being a Playstation exclusive. But now I guess with the influence of Skyrim, Square Enix has finally decided to venture out onto PC. This version will also have all the DLC and also some bonus content. They've also added a first-person mode, which might be strange in a final fantasy game during combat sections. With Nvidia support look forward to new added graphical effects, it should look stunning. And enjoy 4K support if you are lucky enough to have this setup. Mod support is coming, so I'm guessing fans will go crazy, and yes "Cloud" will one day appear in this game. If you own a PC sounds like you're in for a treat.

"Agony"

A game not for the faint of heart, journey into hell in this survival horror. Having looked at an early trailer they don't pull any punches. So, expect some really nasty imagery, it's going to be very Heavy Metal. The game play is from a first-person perspective as you control a martyr who has been condemned to hell. Sort of like "Amnesia the Dark Descent" meets Dante's inferno. As you progress you are also able to control some of the Demons you encounter, so if you want to survive get ready to hide.

Far cry 5

The open world shooter franchise continues. This time set in hope county Montana. In case you don't know Far Cry, features an open world sandbox, with many different vehicles to help you move around. Enemy outposts around the map need to be cleared to undermine and weaken the oppressing despot and liberate the locals. This time there will be a new character creation feature so you're not stuck with the premade hero. I'm curious to see what people are able to come up with, maybe play as Donald Trump? You will also be able to recruit some of the locals to help in the fight Also different is the premise, where as a deputy you are enlisted to stop a doomsday cult lead by the Reverend Joseph Seed. They always have interesting villains in these games so I bet the cutscenes will be fun to watch.

"Bravo Team" and "Golum" PSVR

English developers of the charming little big planet have a new game for the PSVR called Bravo team. Bravo Team is set in a fictional modern day Eastern European city. Where your escort mission goes wrong resulting in the President's assassination, a country threatens to tear itself apart...and your team along with it. Featuring single player and two players on line co-op.

Ok so this is a cover-based shooter. Movement looks to be via teleportation. People are starting to get a bit fed up with this, which makes this game more like an on rails shooter. We all remember playing "House of the dead" and "Time crisis" back in the day. Movement in VR is proving to be a challenge. However, coming to the rescue are the makers of "Golem" also out on PSVR. They have their own solution something called an incline control system, where you move your body slightly in the direction you want to go. Maybe this will feel more natural than teleportation we shall see. However there is no doubt that the sword fighting looks excellent reminds me of using a Wii controller yes couch potatoes will have to move their arms to block and parry. I would personally prefer to be playing this over "Bravo Team" especially in single play.

So what a great month with some really great games, sadly both require a lot of time and money. Sorry if I didn't get around to releases for the younger crowd. Just to let them know that there is a new "Kirby" game along with "Pikachu Detective" and "Scriblenauts showdown".

The Grape Trail

Wines from the Big Mountain

If you were to drive up Highway 2 from Bangkok to Nakhon Ratchasima, you'd eventually pass a small turn-off to the right into Highway 1060 which meanders into the hills of Khao Yai National Park. A little to the south, in the lush and fertile Asoke Valley you'd find GranMonte vineyards and winery. Up here, it's 350m (over 1,000 feet) above sea level although you'd never guess. GranMonte is pronounced "Gran-montay" and it's the Italianized translation of Khao Yai (big mountain), which is the home to several Thai wineries. Khao Yai National Park is also home to several hundred wild elephants and many other exotic animals, including the barking deer, the Malayan sun bear and the gaur which is an odd-looking kind of cow, though it doesn't look much like one.

You might be surprised to know that quality wine is produced in Thailand, and a handful of wineries are turning out superb award-winning wines made from locally-grown grapes. Traditionally, wine grapes are grown between the latitudes of 30° and 50° in both the Northern and Southern hemispheres. In contrast, most of Thailand's vineyards are found in a narrow band between 14° and 18° N. For a long time it was thought that wine grapes simply wouldn't grow so far south, until a royal project began experiments with grape planting about thirty years ago.

GranMonte has a state-of-the-art winery and uses winemaking equipment imported from France, Germany, Italy and Australia. In recent years, their wines have won dozens of prestigious international prizes. The wine-maker is Nikki Lohitnavy, the daughter of Visooth and Sakuna Lohitnavy, the owners of GranMonte Vineyard and Winery. Nikki studied at the University of Adelaide and she's the first fully-qualified winemaker in Thailand with a bachelor's degree in oenology and honours in viticulture. In 2016, Nikki was listed as one of Forbes Asia's 30 Under 30 for her work in rapidly developing GranMonte's products, innovating techniques for tropical viticulture and winemaking, and helping to boost the position of Thailand's wine industry on the world stage.

GranMonte Asoke Valley Verdelho 2017 (white), Thailand (Bt. 995 @ Passion Delivery)

https://www.passiondelivery.com/products/award-winning-2017-verdelho-gmt034?taxon_id=33 >>

This splendid wine has an attractive, slightly oily appearance in the glass. This is a sign of the Portuguese Verdelho grape, which in Thailand is cultivated only at GranMonte. It's often confused with the Italian Verdello grape but despite the similarity in names they are completely unrelated. There's a sumptuous aroma with hints of white flowers, mango and ripe guava. Take your time sniffing because the aroma has so much to offer. On the palate, you'll notice the rich, silky-smooth mouth-feel with luscious papaya fruit together with a dash of white pepper. It's as dry as the proverbial bone and there's a pleasing dash of natural acidity although the rich fruit offsets the dryness. This wine won the coveted award of Best Wine from Southeast Asia in the prestigious Hong Kong International Wine and Spirit Competition. It really is a cracker of a wine, and as a bonus there's a long dry finish of around forty-five seconds.

Drink it cold of course. It comes at a decent 14% ABV (alcohol by volume) and you could enjoy it straight out of the fridge because in our tropical climate it will warm up fast enough. After the bottle has been open for about twenty-five minutes, the flavours will intensify. This would make a terrific aperitif and its fresh clean quality would make a splendid partner for many Thai dishes.

GranMonte Asoke Valley Heritage Syrah 2014 (red), Thailand (Bt. 890 @ Passion Delivery)

https://www.passiondelivery.com/products/2014-heritage-syrah?taxon_id=34 >>

The Syrah grape, also known as the Shiraz is grown all over the world but its traditional home is the Rhône region of south eastern France. This one is a rich dark red with an intense spicy aroma that wafts out of the glass. You'll probably pick up jammy succulent black fruit and berries with the characteristic Syrah peppery quality. This award-winning wine feels lean and clean on the palate and it's quite full bodied. Some Australian Shiraz wines taste as though you've been hit in the face with a sack of cherries. In contrast, winemaker Nikki Lohitnavy has crafted a more refined wine which rather reminds me of the traditional French style. There's plenty of flavour but the firm texture and fine tannins hold the fruit in place. You might notice a hint of vanilla on the lingering finish. It's an elegant and well-balanced wine and as dry as they come.

At 13.5% ABV it would make a perfect food partner but authoritative wines needs to be paired with full-bodied flavours. Assertive meat dishes will work well, such as rib eye steak, beef stew, venison, spicy sausages or a ragout with olives and peppers.

After the wine has been open for twenty minutes or so, you'll probably notice the secondary aromas appearing with hints of cherry, plums and olives. Forget that nonsense about leaving the opened bottle on the table for a bit, because it won't make a scrap of difference. Simply pour the wine into the glasses and leave them untouched for a few minutes because it will get far more oxygen that way. Just try and resist the temptation to have a swig.

SUGAR HUT

I've lived in Pattaya for six years now and am ashamed to say have never visited The Sugar Hut. I've passed by the entrance on Thappraya Road by the traffic lights turning to Pratumnak many times but never ventured in. Therefore I was delighted to have the opportunity to meet with Khun Miew and be shown around.

The first thing you notice as you travel down the tree clad road is that despite the fact you are only a few metres from the general hustle bustle and traffic of Thappraya road you feel that you are in fact miles outside Pattaya somewhere deep in the Thai countryside. There are exotic plants and trees gathered from all parts of the world, a cooling breeze and even parrots and peacocks !

A blend of East meets West the Traditional Award Winning Thai restaurant and charming villas surround a beautiful and very refreshing looking swimming pool. It really is a great place to stay and relax so it comes as no surprise when Khun Miew tells me that as well as couples and families Sugar Hut is very popular with companies. For example many Corporate Japanese bookings are made rewarding hard working sales teams with a couple of days of rest and relaxation in these wonderful surroundings.

For those lucky enough to stay in one of the traditional villas you will continue to find a pleasing mix of East meets West and the best of both Modern and Traditional facilities. For example there are modern shower fixtures in a traditional bathroom surround and a really beautiful bed set into wood to give excellent spine support and promote a really good night's sleep as well as looking extremely attractive.

There are plans for a new area to open later this year as can be seen from the buildings being put in place further towards Thappraya road. These are still very much in keeping with the traditional Thai surrounds and even include a raised outdoor area which will be available for jazz concerts as well as including places to enjoy the food and calm surroundings

Watch this space as we keep you advised of the progress !

GERRY GRAHAM – THE CHEF AT SUNNY'S

When speaking to Gerry it's a good idea to tune your ear into his accent as life in Pattaya has done nothing to dull the Scottish lilt but believe me doing so is well worth the effort as Gerry has some fascinating stories to tell. Some I am able to include here and some I thought best to keep "off the record". Gerry will be known to many as the chef that put the Steak in Steak and Co in Pattaya and now is making a real name for both himself and Sunny's on the "darkside".

I first met Gerry at a little place called "Bite me Bistro" on third road. I was attending a birthday lunch and he was chatting to a fellow chef. Now, I know all about good food but frankly am rubbish at cooking or preparing it but it was evident straight away that Gerry certainly knew "his onions" - if you'll forgive the pun!

Fast forward to our recent meeting at Sunny's where Gerry Graham, a worthy Pattaya Personality for this month's issue showed me that his enthusiasm for food and general pride in being a chef is still very much in evidence. He is now part of the dynamic team at Sunny's, really making a name for themselves, as those of you who love to photograph food and share on Facebook are well aware..He first met Packky when teaching her how to make bread and pizza for her takeaway business. She and husband Graham had been looking for years for a space with enough room to be a destination place for the whole family. So when they found the perfect plot on Soi Khao Noi/Soi Nernplubwarm it was an opportunity too good to miss and they soon decided having Gerry in the kitchen would be just perfect.

So even after being offered the chance of a job in Houston as a man of his word, Gerry would not let down his friends and so decided it was definitely Thailand and not Texas that was to be his home. So I was keen to know if Gerry thought he'd made the right choice? After all, in his professional history he has had some very interesting offers. At the tender age of 17 straight from school in Scotland he worked at Mama Mia and then opened Trattoria Trevi for "a lovely Italian family" . He then went on to work for Claudio in Glasgow and Da Claudio in Motherwell where he was head chef for 9 years and which he proudly tells me is still going strong.

After leaving Da Claudio he went on to what is known in the profession as "the chef's circuit" working at all the major events Royal Ascot, Wimbledon, Silverstone, Henley, Wembley,the VIP area of Chelsea Football club, The O2 London and The Air Show in Paris..He even cooked for the Queen's cousin having to produce over 500 scones for assembled guests at a special event in the Savoy Grill Marquee at Royal Ascot where there was also an accompanying fashion show. He has worked for Airdrie Football Club as their Executive chef for 2 years and even opened his own place "Gerards" which he built up and sold on to further his career.

For five years he had some really prestigious work cooking at events for The Roux Family and so impressed was the world famous Albert Roux - he offered Gerry a job in a restaurant he was opening in Edinburgh. Gerry turned this down as he had already settled on the idea of moving to Thailand but to this day he returns to the UK every year to do a couple of weeks work for them. However, for the rest of the year the UK's loss is Pattaya's gain.

Since moving to Thailand Gerry has cooked at the soon to be sold British Embassy in Bangkok and also at a special children's fundraising gala organised by the Rotary club and now Sunny's in particular, is his home. In fact Gerry was only too happy to show me around this new home and in particular his kitchen which is, as the "chef's whites" he wears spotless ! In a country like Thailand where high standards of hygiene are crucial the cooking areas, the cold store room and every surface are meticulously cleaned.

From the preparation to the plating up and then to the table, when Gerry prepares your meals what comes across is his love of food on the plate and at Sunny's with their constantly changing ideas and plans for more delights to tempt us with - such as the newly introduced Chinese menu then yes, Gerry is pleased he has made the change to live over here. We should be pleased too!

THE BIG KAHUNA ON THAPPRAYA ROAD

"Hamburgers ! Corner stone of any nutritious breakfast
What kind of Hamburgers?
Big Kahuna Burger that's that Hawaiiin burger jointI hear they got some tasty burgers."

These famous lines scripted by Quentin Tarantino and spoken by Samuel Jackson provided an iconic scene in a fantastic film that would forever immortalise the "Big Kahuna Burger washed down with a tasty beverage".

So with a pleasing sense of fun it is great to see Big Kahuna come to Thappraya road and delight us all with their Great American sandwiches, pizzas, Hawaiian inspired dishes and much, much more.

When The Pattaya Trader visited, pineapple was right up there as a Hawaiiin flavour for our choice of fare. From the extremely tasty "Thawaiian Fried Rice" succulent chicken fried rice beautifully served from within a Pineapple – and really so plentiful it would make a great dish for 2 to share. Through to the lip smacking ribs with a slice of pineapple on the side and then my absolute favourite the towering BBQ Onion Burger. When this was served to my table rather embarrassingly people came over to stare and possibly to see if I could actually finish itI could ! The home made onion rings were amazing and the potato salad – well just don't get me started

I love the colours, the hand painted décor and the themed music. This eaterie is professionally run carrying the theme and the fun right the way through. I can;t wait to go back for a breakfast feed of big buttermilk pancakes or crispy bacon and aged cheddar cheese croissant or Bacon Cheesburger Omelet the wants are endless !

If you haven't been yet I'd advise you to go as soon as possible but be sure to go hungry!

NAKADIA : WAVING THE FLAG FOR THE TECHNO SCENE IN HER NATIVE NATION

For the first time in a long time “Thai Techno Queen” Nakadia has returned to the city of Pattaya. Charging up the ranks on the global stage and collaborating with some of her idols within her scene, she has been changing the face of the club scene here in Thailand and across Asia. Before her set at the newly open Ibiza-esque Cocoon, we got close and personal to discover a little more about how she made the jump to international acclaim.

Q. So how did everything start, your career, your opportunities, your DJing career, how did it start?

Well, it all started when I was fifteen, it is a little bit of a long story. I love to hang out I love to party, I live in Korat, the East of Thailand, so I went to the club for the first time and I was like wow, this is my world. I was working in a factory and I was always quite happy to go to the club a few times in the week. Even working in many different factories at that time, at the end of the night I would always go and party.

Then in 2002, I was in my early twenties, I went to Germany. It was there that for the first time I saw a female DJ. I was like wow, there is this girl rocking the dance floor - DJ Marusha. It was from there that I see the real DJ life. People really waiting in a long line to get to the club and they very much respect the artist. They come for the artist, and for the club. So it was in the middle of the dance floor I realized, that is what I want to be, after then I could see what the DJ life could be and can have a future (in it). So right away I go to a record shop (in Germany), and buy some (my first), vinyl. After, when I get back to Thailand, I went to the local club I used to hang out and asked if I could use the turntables to practice. It didn't really work out for me then, as I had no one to teach me.

After that, Sebastian (my manager), asked me why don't I come back to Europe? So he set me up in his friend's room at a university to practice for three months. I practiced, like every day, like I study... in a university basically. In the last week, another friend of Sebastian had a DJ Agency and he asked me if I was ready to play in the club? So I say, yeah I really want to play in the club... So my first party that I play for, was like for 2,500 people. Starting on vinyl, I moved to from Korat (once I returned from Europe), to Koh Samui, as I knew there was a lot of beach party there and I began with Deep House and Progressive back then.

Q. So it is great that you came to start on this small island (Koh Samui) and we know you are doing amazing things on this island right now. During your Asian Tour you are returning every second Friday, right? You are also doing something amazing there with an icon in your genre...

Yeah, you know, Sven (Vath), I love his music and his energy... so why not bring Sven to the tropical island where I begin and the people there would love to see him there more often. So we make it very busy, all the flights coming in and all the boats - so now everywhere is busy and sold out. Now I have also become a promoter (through the success of this). I never thought to become a promoter but I want to bring a good thing for Thailand. We have the scene, very small, and I want to grow the scene. Also, what is very good is we have the local support in different areas; like in Phuket we have the Bermudos that play a kind of Deep, Tech House and Techno in that area, in Bangkok they have local DJs playing underground music and, also, in Koh Samui. Plus it is nice to invite outside (international), artist to join us also to help the scene grow. And I believe we are doing very well in the last few years. In Bangkok last night (for example), I play in a new club - Violet. It was a new experience for me, as I play for a lot of Thai people in the club. Like 50 percent Farrang (Expatriate), and 50 percent Thai. Normally my club is always full of European. I am very impressed how open-minded Thai people are - they really get into the music and they love my music, so yeah, very happy.

Q. So that means now, your Thai fan base is growing at the moment as well?

Yeah, it is doing very well. You see the thing is, Thai people, they love music and they are open-minded. We just have to educate them, we have to show them that this is Techno. See before, they didn't really know what Techno was and now it is fashion.

Q. Do you think the Techno Scene is evolving in the past few years?

Yeah, I think it is really true, that the Techno scene grows big time. For example, here in Thailand, it was only a little scene and now the scene is getting bigger and bigger. More and more people are coming to enjoy Techno music. In Europe, this happen a long time ago. Four weeks ago I went to South America, Argentina and now the scene is really big there. They have dance floors of 10/20 thousand, just for Techno. My friends over there say they have been doing very well for the last five years now.

Q. We can see that you are also evolving, as a big fan for many years I see you growing. Now you are doing your Asia, South America and Australia tour, tell me a little about the past months?

The past months have been very crazy because I passed five continents in five weeks. So I start South America; I play in Argentina, Ecuador and Colombia and the highlight (there), is Columbia - amazing... I play five hours set, the official is that I play three hours but the people stay on in the club, so I go on two more hours. Ha ha ha. With around 1,500 in the club, the people there come for the music and they come early because they know they want to party longer. Then the next weekend I am in Europe in Hungary, then for one day in North Africa, in Morocco, then straight to Australia and then onto Asia, now, with the start of my Asian tour.

Q. Do you know where your biggest amount fans are at the moment?

Sometimes I don't really know... how many fans I have? Every corner I went to, I have fans, and people know me. I think, because it is the country I play a lot in, is Italy... so I think I have a lot of fans there. Oh and Romania as well... I must have fans right? Because they keep inviting me over to play again and again and again and the place, and it is always busy.. so... I have a fan..

Q. What is your biggest achievement so far?

I do everything really step by step. I play the club I want to play, I wanted to produce and I produce - I work with a good guy also, as a team to produce because I don't have too much time. So everything going really well with my career. Now I become a promoter, my next party will be with Loco Dice. I am happy with what I did now, everything going really well and I didn't expect anything. Everything seems to come in the natural way. I will be happy I think, in the future, I am fine. And from the past I am very pleased with what I did, I'm so proud because I work so hard and keep on fighting - not only just as a DJ and trying to make a career but I also have problem with my visas. When I go somewhere, sometimes, I have to make like two, three times. So even though I am tired now, I am tired with the traveling, when I am in the club, I am happy. When I see my dance floor, I really feel good.

Q. Once you finish here in Asia and return to Europe for the summer, you have some big things coming up?

I will play for Elrow, headlining at Amnesia Ibiza and I also have a residency at Zoo Project where I will be the last act on the main stage. So I now have ten gigs in Ibiza, which is also great. They are both really busy venues, Elrow (for example), was sold out every Saturday last summer. So I am really excited to play for them.

Q. I know you are busy but do you ever take a little time for yourself or do you just keep on focusing on keeping the gigs coming?

Hmm, I don't really have time for myself. I do my ways in my personal time and before I go to bed, I use a lot of cream, ha ha ha. You know why because it is my relaxing time. First cream, second cream, just before I go to bed. It is my personal relaxing time.

Q. Do you have any advice for an Asian fellow DJ or Producer?

It is not so hard to become a DJ, anyone can really do it, but to be famous, you have to work on it and follow your heart. What do you want to be, do you want to be a commercial DJ or an underground DJ or Techno DJ or whatever - you have to know what you really want. And then, the next step, you have to produce these days. And not just any label, you need to release on a big label that can take you to the top and then know the right people.

Q. Do you have a new EP or any new releases coming up soon?

Really soon, my track with Citizen Kane will be released with Filth on Acid Records.

So level-headed and driven, Nakadia, is set for a vibrant career for sure, a real inspiration to any artists in Asia looking to aim for the big time. It was great to be with her and yet there was so much more discussed but there is a limit to the number of words I can place in any one article. So, to really get a feel for this wonderfully warm woman, her passion for her music and fans alike, check out the full interview with Ray Ray at djmagasain.com. And if you like what you have read and would love to check the girl out on the wheels of steel, you'll be able to check out her movements in and around Thailand over the coming months there also.

Nakadia is back in Pattaya more regularly now, as she continues to lift the vibes at the new venue Cocoon on Walking Street .

96FM – Get Your Kicks On 96

After getting the most popular radio station in Pattaya back on track, production manager Barry Upton has been recently ironing out some initial problems and updating the very listenable playlist of ‘Sunshine Hits’ that bring back so many memories featuring alongside the best of the new stuff.

The music library is now full of ‘wow’ tunes for all ages and ears with an upbeat feel to reflect the fun city that is Pattaya. Some additional complimentary latest Pop/Country songs are now airing as well with the feedback so far extremely positive. This genre has taken the world by storm utilizing modern production methods on great songwriting with lyrics that are easy to relate to. In a world where modern standard pop and dance music is so repetitive and unoriginal, this new crop of Pop/Country stars are a breath of fresh air.

Many special guests have been visiting the studios and recording interviews for radio and TV with Pattaya People Media Group also welcoming sponsors old and new to come and get extra exposure for themselves and their products in a lighthearted and informal way.

Weekdays begin with the always fun ‘Morning Glory’ breakfast show airing between 8am to noon featuring guests galore and other live events. Barry Upton is your host, helping to make the sun shine even brighter. If you’d like to join Barry on the show, maybe having an event to promote or an interesting subject to feature, contact him by email: barry@pattayapeople.com.

This month there’s a midday to 2pm show called ‘Let’s Do Lunch’ featuring DJ Johnny P who hails from Preston in the U.K. and is an ‘in demand’ Northern Soul specialist, a genre which is regularly featured on 96FM.

From 2pm to 4pm, the lovely and charming D.J.- S.J. (Sarah Jayne) provides a little ‘Afternoon Delight’ to accompany an occasional daytime cuppa with a nice slice of cake....maybe.

Paul Rosenberg’s ‘Sundowner’ show from 4pm to 6pm takes us from late afternoon into the night time zone as ‘the sun goes down’. His ‘cool’ American smooth tones help guide you through to the sun setting. He also helps Barry Upton present a new feature, the regularly updated ‘Events & Gig Guide’ that allows listeners to be informed of what’s happening around town.

The online version of 96FM is now up and running as is the ‘app’ so that the message of ‘come to Pattaya, the most fun city in the world’ can be heard internationally.

The other radio stations, Kiss FM on 91.75 featuring dance style music aimed at a younger audience, and Russian Radio 90.75 also come under the Pattaya People Media Group wing and can be accessed on a daily basis.

The future for radio in Pattaya is bright with a whole lotta ‘Sunshine Hits’. Get your kicks on 96 !!! Pattaya People Radio.

PATTAYA PEOPLE TELEVISION – Entertainment Central

At Pattaya People Media Group, we have always prided ourselves on having the only 24 hour, mainly English speaking Expat targeted TV channel in town. So instead of not knowing when the random one hour of transmission by other companies is on, you can be sure to catch the latest Pattaya People material whenever it suits you, providing quality entertainment and information of interest to Expats in the area.

As with the radio, Barry Upton is now back in charge of editing the TV output schedule with a wish to produce more fun programming, even if there may be a subliminal commercial aspect. A former favourite series 'Pattaya Stories' has returned with interesting people who live or regularly visit the area chatting about their lives and thoughts about this region of Thailand.

'On air' at the moment are chats with Tilly Rutherford, a legend in the U.K. music business who signed Kylie Minogue, Rick Astley and Donna Summer amongst many others during his time at the 'Hit Factory' PWL label, plus John Collingbourne, a long time auctioneer in Pattaya with a juicy story to tell alongside his gavel banging exploits..

Many people have voiced the loss of not seeing Barry Upton's 'Behind the Music' programmes over the past year, so the good news is that new ones are in the offing and soon to go into production. Meanwhile some popular repeats of shows already in the can are now showing including the ever popular 'Beatles' edition.

Travelogue style programmes such as the highly popular 'Koh Chang' series are to be joined by more features with handy travel tips around Thailand and S.E. Asia in general. Also Pattaya People Media Group have joined forces with Pattaya Utd of the Thai Premier Football League to provide information about upcoming home games and their new Expat fan club featuring the fans reactions to the games' highlights.

If you would like to help in the making of our TV programmes by either suggesting a topic or facility to cover, even taking part yourself, then please contact Pattaya People and let us know your suggestions. Maybe you're a business that would like to advertise but in a more modern,subliminal way. Pattaya People Television is the way forward and has the know how to help you in your quest for exposure, not only on cable TV, but worldwide online. Also our TV station is searching for a Thai female presenter who can speak very good English to present some of the new output so please spread the word.

PAGS has a Record Field

A Flight & Low Gross Winner - Jeff Wylie

Pattaya Amateur Golf Series had a record number of participants, 188, which included a record number of Ladies, 29. The Mountain & Lakes 9s were the combination of the day, with the course playing at its full scorecard length and with no preferred lies, it was expected a return to sensible scores would ensue. This proved to be correct, with only 1 male score hitting the 40 point mark, while the Ladies again defied the course but with only a small number breaking 40.

The winner in the Ladies Flight went to Phensri Snyder (26) with a creditable 42 points, 1 clear of Nat Rukkid (12), who also picked up the 3rd shot approach on Lake 6.

The C Flight winner for handicaps 20+ was Ronan Lastennet (23) with the aforementioned day's best men's score of 40. Rolf Urhog (32) got 2nd position with 38 points, on a countback of the back 9 holes 24/20, over Lars Akerblom (24).

B Flight for handicaps 14 – 19 was won by Craig Banks with a solid 37 points, ahead of several players on 34 points. Roland Nilsson (17) had the best back 9 of 18 points to claim 2nd spot, while Werner Schwarz (17) edged others out of 3rd place with a back 9 of 16, & a last 6 holes of 11 points.

The A Flight for players for 0 – 13 saw Jeff Wylie (9) successful over Ronny Larsson (11) on countback 21/17, after both signed for 39 points. Ronny also securing the Long Drive in the 54 & under division on 18. The bronze medal position required a countback to settle the placing, with Morten Schjelle being successful after scoring 37 points with a back 9 of 22, to go with his NTP on Lake 7.

After 2017's feast of under par scores in the Low Gross, this month saw Jeff Wylie win with a comparatively meagre 78, having edged Bob Watson 37/40 on the back 9. Bob having to be content with an honorable mention for his 2 technical prizes on Mountain 6 & 7. Paul Smith getting a shout out for his approach on Mountain 1 and his Long Drive on Lake 9.

There was a bumper crowd back at Hemingways for the presentation, none of whom went home hungry after Dave's crew did a tip top job.

A big thank you to all the sponsors, both old and new, for what promises to be another successful PAGS contact Shane on 0859459689, through Facebook, or birdie.in.th for your preferred time slot.

It's Time to Get Prepared

The crazy months of Xmas and New Year are over and hopefully you received that special gift of a rod and reel. There are many varied fish species in Thailand and therefore many different baits and tactics are used to catch them. Here are the some of the more common baits, it is by no means a comprehensive list but it is at least something to think about and a good starting point for anyone who wants to experiment with different combinations and mixtures when fishing in Thailand.

BREAD (Thai - Kanom bang): There are two main types of Bread you can buy in Thailand both are usually mixed with powdered, ground baits or something to add attraction: The first , which can be bought from most supermarkets is normal sandwich bread which is edible for humans. All the varieties are available, white, wholemeal, rye, thick sliced, thin sliced, no crust, added vitamin as well as chocolate bread, coconut bread, bread with jam and banana bread.

The second type which is not edible for humans are smell-enhanced bread .This is special bread made to use as fishing bait. It has flavour enhancers mixed into it that make it very potent and not suitable for human consumption. You can buy this bait from any fishing tackle shop as well as at fishing parks. There are 4 common flavours: banana, vanilla, strawberry and pandan. It's quite easy to tell which is which by the colours.

GROUND OR POWDERED FISHING BAIT (lam or Lum): This bait is very similar to European ground bait or method mix, can be used alone or mixed with bread and is packed around a feeder and cast into the water. Again they can be purchased from any tackle shop or fishing park. The four main flavours are Banana, Vanilla, Strawberry and pandan but there is also a flavour called Nom meow in Thai which basically translated means Cats Milk. Fruit baits can be a very good bait to use for certain fish species, obviously very easy to buy as most street corners will have a fruit stall. They need to be chopped and mixed by you. The fruit is then usually mixed with normal unflavoured Sandwich bread. Getting the right mix is important so it will produce a very strong smell that will last a while when submerged in the water. Some popular fruits used are: Raisins, Bananas, Mangoes, Grapes, Apricots, Pineapples, Durian, Jackfruit and Papaya. Experimentation is the key and some will work better than others in different locations or at different times of the year when certain fruits are in season.

Ground bait or powdered bait known as LUM in Thai language is a very popular fishing bait and used together with a method type wire cage feeder. It can be mixed together with any of the other bait types or used on its own. Experimentation is the key if you have time and patience.

SOFT FISHING BAITS: These are easily purchased from markets, they need to be mixed by you into a dough together with normal un-enhanced bread . Some good ones to try are: Coconut milk, Chocolate milk, Creamy Cakes, Eggs, Milk Powder, Butter, Cocoa, Coffee, Cheese, Condensed Milk.

FLOUR FISHING BAITS: Include - Noodle flour, Tapioca flour, Yam flour and Rice flour. These need to be mixed into dough together with Bread or Powdered bait additive called "cats milk". These small bottles of very strong flavourings can also be bought from most Fishing tackle shops and Fishing parks, although very cheap to buy and come in numerous flavours its easy to get over excited and add too much of this stuff. Adding to much will distract the fish and will not have the desired effect. If you don't know how much to use, its best to ask somebody nearby.

If there is no one around you can experiment but this could be very hit and miss and leave you will mounds of useless bait. It's usually 1 x bottle of flavour mixed with 1 x container of bait. Most places have different sized containers so that formula is not always good to follow. When mixing your own baits it really helps if you can leave them mixed inside a sealed container like a bucket for about 7 days so the smells and flavours really soak into each other to enhance the whole mix. So far the baits described are mainly for Catfish, Carp and Barb species. It's not that those species only eat Bread, Fruit and ground bait, but as Thailand also has predatory species there is one last group of baits that are very effective, these are the FREE Found Baits.

FREE FOUND FISHING BAITS: Free found fishing baits are very varied and as 90% of fish are in some way predatory you could really try anything you can get your hands on. Some of the more common baits for species such as Snakehead are Frogs (both live and dead), Crabs (both live and dead), Prawns (both live and dead), Small Fish (both live and dead), Mussels, Worms and Grubs. Worms are always a dead cert and pretty easy to find in the garden. classic bait that seems to be guaranteed all around the world.

NOW WHERE TO GO - LAKES

Are you ready to get out on the lake and catch some fish? Before you go you might want to read and use some of our lake fishing tips below. While these won't be specific to any certain Thai fish species, they can be used in combination with our fishing tips to make you a more skilful angler.

Inlets and Outlets are your Friend – Like humans, fish like specific temperatures and will generally hang around areas of a lake that they find comfortable. Places where water enters or drains from a lake will generally be much cooler and favourable to fish. Bait fish like to hang around these areas, along with the big monster fish that eat them.

Choose the Right Bait – You can't go wrong with natural freshwater bait such as cricket, worms, minnows, and leeches. Live bait can also be quite affordable from Thai markets. For artificial lures, we recommend fishing jigs. They are the most versatile in lakes because they can catch just about any type of freshwater fish

As the Heat Index Rises – The hotter it gets outside the deeper you'll need to fish. This is because fish tend to like cool temperatures and will retreat to deeper, cooler water as the temperature outside rises. During dusk and dawn fish will come to more shallow water to feed, some more shallow than others. You should research the specific type of fish you're trying to catch in order to learn more.

Find Sunken Structures – Fish like to hang around structures that make them feel safe and that provide the opportunity to ambush other fish. Structures such as downed trees, branches and even man-made fish habitats are a great place to fish.

Look for Weeds – A lot of big fish, like Snakehead, like to ambush their prey from a nice comfy weed bed. Locate some weed beds in the lake your fishing in and try getting your bait and/or lure in that area to see if you can coax a fish to bite. The weed beds that lead to deeper water and create a break line are the best honey pots.

Work with the Wind – On days with a strong breeze you can expect the bait fish to get pushed closer to shore, meaning the big fish will come closer to shore to feed. Watch for drift lines and follow them, they will lead to bait fish, which will in turn lead to big fish.

Safety Information for Lake Fishing

When fishing on a lake it's important to always wear a life vest and follow all local and state regulations when boating on that lake. If you plan to fish from shore and wade into the lake make sure you use a wader belt to prevent water from rapidly filling up your waders in case you fall. Make sure not to leave behind any hooks where you fish or near the shore of the water, they can hurt wild life, domestic pets and even other people. Remember, we share our lakes with fish, wildlife and other humans, so keep them clean and don't leave or toss garbage in the lake.

GOLF - LOOKING AT THE YEAR AHEAD

With the professional golfing season in Asia, Europe and the US already under way and the first major of the year the US Masters only a few weeks away, we thought we would take a look at the golfing prospects for this year.

First of all Dustin Johnson the World Number One has sent a message out to all his competitors by absolutely hosing up in the tournament of Champions in Hawaii in January. Shooting 24 under par, 8 shots clear of the rest of the field.

On the European tour Tommy Fleetwood won in Abu Dhabi and started this season much as he did last, maintaining his improvement and is now pushing for a place in the world's top ten. I can actually remember going to a tournament 3-4 years ago just outside Bangkok with a friend of mine who is a very good judge. After watching Tommy Fleetwood at that tournament I actually thought he wouldn't get anywhere - shows how wrong you can be. However my friend told me "Watch this kid he is going to be a good player" !

Some of the other world's top ranked players have shown their intentions to come back this season better than ever. Jason Day the former world number 1 won The Farmers' Insurance Open on the US Tour by beating Sweden's Alex Noren in a playoff that lasted for 5 holes

Meanwhile Rory McIlroy started the season in good form after his injury problems and a change of clubs and caddy last season. I was actually watching the last round in Dubai which saw McIlroy just beaten into 2nd place by a very talented young Chinese golfer called Li Haotong. Only 22 years old the young Chinese player was playing with McIlroy in the final group and birdied 4 of the last 6 holes to hold McIlroy off to win. What was interesting about this was that during the TV coverage on the day every commentator was talking as if it was going to be a victory stroll for Rory. Despite watching hundreds of hours of golf these so called "experts" seem to get caught up in the hype of the player they are watching and do not read the tournament as it is unfolding in front of their eyes. The strength in depth on the golf scene now is as strong as I have ever seen it and there are no certainties any more.

So at the top of the tree we have Dustin Johnson, Jordan Spieth, Jason Day "Rory McIlroy and the new European Wonder Kid from Spain John Rahm. These will be the names that will be at the top of the market in most tournaments this season. Unfortunately Japan's top rated golfer Hideki Matsuyama who would have been in the above group, had to withdraw from The Waste Management Phoenix Open, recently played in Arizona because of a damaged wrist. How long this takes to heal and what effect it has is anybody's guess but we would hope for a speedy recovery, as Matsuyama is as good as anybody when playing well. So all in all it looks like being a fabulous season with all the top players competing, and the annual excitement of the 4 major tournaments of the year being topped off by The Ryder Cup in September. As I said earlier, The Masters is next month and my friend the good judge reckons that Matt Fitzpatrick the young English professional, has a good chance there because of his good ball striking and fabulous putting.

Of course at the end of September we have The Ryder Cup. This Year's event will be held in France from September 28th to the 30th at Le Golf National in Saint-Quentin-En-Yvelines a suburb South-west of Paris. Believe me this is a tough course and depending on how it is set up will not be torn to pieces despite the fact that some of the world's top golfers will be competing over the three days. The US team looks very strong for the first 4 or 5 players Dustin Johnson, Jordan Speith, Justin Thomas (who has been a winning machine on the US Tour over the last 18 months), Ricky Fowler and Matt Kuchar who has already accrued enough points to be virtually guaranteed a place this year, despite not winning. After that some of the names on the team will be less familiar to the European Golf fans for example Chev Reavie who recently won The Waste Management Phoenix Open in Scottsdale and who will be amongst a host of up and coming players on the US Tour fighting for a place on the team.

Meanwhile the European team looks to have much the same pattern to it as the US Team but I believe has much more strength in depth with Rory McIlroy, Jon Rahm, Sergio Garcia, Tommy Fleetwood Justin Rose Alex Noren, Tyrell Hatton and Henrik Stenson making the top of the team look very strong. Although Stenson will have to improve to guarantee his place if he doesn't want to rely on a Captain's pick to make the team.

Ross Fisher looks like being the European equivalent of Matt Kuchar by not actually winning the tournament but accruing enough high place finishes up until now to virtually guarantee his place in the team. Anyway it is sure to be as always, one of the most exciting sporting spectacles of the year and what a year it promises to be with all this and the World Cup Too!

No Driving Required: What Automated Vehicles Mean For Our Future

You know driverless cars are coming. You've heard about them. But what exactly do they mean for our future? In this article, we break it down.

Like many, you may have spent this morning sitting in an hour of bumper-to-bumper traffic, impatiently tapping your steering wheel as you inched ever so slowly toward your office. This is the norm for millions of people around the world, but all that looks like it will be changing, and sooner than you might think. Autonomous vehicles (AV) are The Next Big Thing in the tech industry. It might sound a little like a farfetched science fiction movie, but think back to those landline locked days when phones were used merely for necessary communication. Who could have envisioned a world in which we all hold the internet in our hands?

Yet in 10 years that has become our reality and it looks as if the same will be true for driverless cars. Google, Uber, and Tesla - to name a few - are already developing and testing prototypes, and some autonomous features are currently available in certain cars.

So what does this new world of driving mean for us? That's the big question, and it's not easily answered. What we do know points to some pretty exciting things as this technology revolutionizes the way we all travel.

What Does It Mean for Safety?

One of the greatest pushes for autonomous vehicles is the obvious improvements in safety that would result as most accidents are attributed to human error. Take the human out of the equation and you have a possible solution to this problem. This increased safety is pretty much guaranteed. The automated vehicles will have the internal technology to "talk," not just to us, but to roads, other vehicles, and even traffic signals. The sole job of the driverless vehicle will be to safely deposit its passengers at their destination.

Think of all the risks drivers currently face:

- Distraction of mobile devices
- Road rage
- Drowsiness/sleepiness behind the wheel
- Driving under the influence of alcohol or drugs
- Attending to children's needs while driving
- Running late and rushing

The list goes on and on - drivers are at risk primarily because human beings are flawed, and even the best driver can have a bad day. Driverless vehicles take these risk factors out of our transportation experience. However, there are some who would argue that there are inherent risks in the development of this kind of advanced technology. As with much modern day technology, there is potential for cybercriminal activity and hacking. The Wall Street Journal, in an article entitled "The Dangers of the Hackable Car," reports that, "Some experts warn of a day when millions of fully internet-connected vehicles will be at risk of being hijacked remotely. A mass hack could be catastrophic for the self-driving cars of the future, especially if those cars don't have steering wheels or other backup systems to let drivers take manual control." However in spite of these concerns, most agree that the improvements in the overall safety of human beings far outweighs the possible risks that might follow, especially considering that most of these companies are already doing the research and development necessary to guard against such dangers.

What Does It Mean for Productivity ?

In the new world of autonomous vehicles, not only are people safer, they are able to make more productive use of the time. All those distractions we just mentioned that put drivers at risk? They disappear.

- Your phone no longer distracts you from the task at hand, but rather IS the task at hand, as you allow the vehicle to take you where you want to go.
- Didn't get enough sleep? Catch up with a nap on your commute to work.
- A few drinks doesn't mean danger for you or anyone around you as you get into your car.
- Conference calls and meetings can simply happen on the way to and from work, and not just when you are in the office.

What Does It Mean for the Economy?

This is one of the main factors which could slow down the progress of this research and development. We know that ultimately, driverless cars have the potential to be very good for the economy. Here are a few ways this technological advance will impact the economy.

- As man-driven vehicles become a thing of the past, and so will the jobs entailed by those vehicles. Delivery services, taxi and bus drivers, and truck drivers, to name a few, will become obsolete as those services become automated.
- However, as the need for these jobs gradually decreases, there will be an influx of new jobs as well, as a result of this technology. This will likely happen over time, meaning a gradual job displacement, rather than rapid, mass job loss.
- While it's hard to know exactly how the public would respond as automated vehicles become the primary means of transportation, car ownership may drastically decrease, and investment in a vehicle will become an outdated concept. After all, many already choose to grab an Uber over driving for themselves. Why purchase an automated vehicle when you can just rent one for your commute every day?
- We could see growth in cities as massive parking garages are no longer needed, and that space becomes available for homes, businesses, or even green space. The economic implications of the driverless car seem complex and far reaching, but it's important to recognize that these changes will be happening incrementally, and much of what's predicted will be a long time in the making.

What Does It Mean For the Environment?

This is a pretty open-ended question, with very little certainty about the answer. For now, it seems that autonomous vehicles have the potential to be either great, or really not great, for the environment. Here are some of the potential positive impacts:

- The decrease in safety risk means a decrease in safety precautions. Much of the current equipment required for vehicle safety will no longer be needed, meaning less energy spent developing those materials, and less weight in the vehicle itself, resulting in less energy required for the vehicle to run.
- Programming might mean that cars only ever use the most fuel-efficient routes.
- Automated vehicles could use up to 90% less energy than cars today. What are the potential negative impacts, though?
- Because car rides would no longer require anything of the driver, many might be willing to live even farther from the workplace, or more readily take long drives, as it won't negatively impact the time in their day, meaning MORE driving, not less.
- See that last point in the positive impacts column? Well, it's true that automated vehicles could use up to 90% less energy, but it's also true that they could use up to 200% more, according to researchers.

It's hard for even the experts to really know how the advent of automated driving will impact our environment, but researchers and developers building these prototypes are listening to concerns and being very proactive as they look to the future of driving.

What Does it Mean for the Car Itself?

When you imagine this driverless car taking you where you need to go, you're probably picturing your current vehicle without a steering wheel, or something along those lines. However, in actuality, cars may be entirely redesigned as steering and powering features become automated and certain safety features are no longer necessary.

You might see:

- Chairs that swivel so that occupants can face one another and chat or conduct meetings (as with the Mercedes Benz F015)
- Interiors designed specifically tailored for the desires of the owner.
- Sofas or beds for lounging and relaxing.

The car's place in society will change as well. If car ownership becomes a thing of the past, so will the idea of garages, not just parking garages, but home garages as well. Thus the change in car design could lead to a change in home design.

As transportation changes, so will people's lives, and this has far reaching implications for the makeup of our not just our homes, but our cities, and ultimately the world, as well.

Automated Vehicles are Coming: Are You Ready?

While it's true that the road to driverless cars is a long one, there's no doubt that we are already driving down that road (or being driven down that road, as the case may be).

While some might view this prospect as somewhat frightening, it has the potential to improve all of our lives for the better, giving us hours back in our day and making us, and those who come after us, safer than ever as we travel from place to place.

How to get A Driving Licence in Thailand

What you will need when applying for your Thai Driver's licence:

Interpreter

If you cannot read or understand the Thai language, you are allowed to bring an interpreter with you to help fill the forms and give translation if necessary in the instruction class and with the tests.

Valid Passport with Valid Non-immigrant Visa

Signed copies of the passport's first page, the page with the current non-immigrant visa, the page with the last entry stamp and the TM-card.

A certified letter of address

From the applicant's embassy, or the Immigration Bureau (document cannot be older than 30 days). If you are working in Thailand: the blue workbook, better known as your work permit, can replace either of these documents and serve as address verification!

A doctor's certificate

Stating that the applicant is in good health, both physically and mentally (standard forms are available from most clinics and should not be more than 30 days old)

2 photos,

1" x 1" and not older than 6 months (photo service is available on the premises).

Valid international driver's licence

Plus signed photocopy or a translated regular driving licence from the applicant's home country, certified by Embassy or consulate. (if available).

Note that 1 set of these documents is required per licence application. However, when applying for both a car and a motorcycle licence, an extra copy of the doctor's certificate and the letter of address will suffice for the second application.

Getting a Thai driving license is not difficult. When you see how many Thai drivers are, you may even wish they made it more difficult. However after moving to Thailand it's very important that you do get one. Traffic police routinely set up roadblocks to stop motorists and check if they've got their licence and vehicle tax in order. Having a Thai driving licence in this situation will mean that you're back on your way in under 30 seconds.

You can use an International Driving Permit as a tourist, but if you've been in the country for 60 days or more then you are supposed to get a Thai driving licence. Having a valid driving licence from your home country will make the process of getting a Thai driving licence faster. With a valid licence you won't be required to take the theory or practical (driving) exams.

If you wish to be able to drive both cars and motorcycles in Thailand, then you'll have to apply for 2 separate driving permits and be issued with 2 different cards but you can get both done during the same visit (or series of visits) to the Land Transportation Office. If your home country driving licence is only valid for automobiles then you will still have to take the written and driving tests to get your Thai motorcycle driving licence.

If it your first time getting a Thai driving licence, you'll be issued with a temporary permit valid for 2 years. When the first 2 years are nearly up, you should make another trip to the Department of Land Transport and get a regular license which is valid for 5 years.

A Thai driving licence is theoretically valid in all 10 ASEAN member nations of Southeast Asia. It can also be used as a valid form of identification inside Thailand. For example, you can use a Thai driving licence to board a domestic flight instead of using your passport.

DO YOU HAVE A UK BASED OR COMPANY PENSION ?

DO YOU KNOW IT'S VALUE ? IF NOT WE CAN HELP

DO YOU KNOW HOW TO ACCESS YOUR PENSION FUND ?

In recent weeks there has been great deal of concern that the virtual-currency boom of the past year has papered over many problems. As digital tokens slid more than 50 percent in value from their peak in early January some of these problems have come to light. Such as: hackers draining funds from online exchanges and Ponzi schemes.

The government regulators have been unable to keep up with the rise of cryptocurrencies and two main regulatory agencies in the United States that oversee the technology, the Securities and Exchange Commission and the Commodity Futures Trading Commission, are to testify before the Senate about their attempts to police virtual currency markets.

The pro currency enthusiasts argue that the problems are no different from what has happened in other booms, like the internet bubble of the 1990s. However, regulating bodies are concerned that virtual currencies by cutting out middlemen and government authorities have made bad behaviour more prevalent.

“Cryptocurrencies are almost a perfect vehicle for scams,” said Kevin Werbach, a professor at University of Pennsylvania. “The combination of credulous buyers and low barriers for scammers were bound to lead to a high level of fraud, if and when the money involved got large. The fact that the money got huge almost overnight, before there were good regulatory or even self-regulatory models in place, made the problem acute.”

Government agencies in the United States have shut down a few notable frauds. Early last month, securities regulators in Texas and North Carolina issued cease-and-desist orders to BitConnect, an operation that had grown to be worth $3 billion. But those moves only came after BitConnect had operated openly for months, collecting hundreds of millions of dollars from people around the world despite being labelled a Ponzi scheme by many prominent people in the virtual currency industry.

Another pyramid scheme, MMM, which was shut down in an earlier incarnation by the Russian government, has been revived thanks to the popularity of Bitcoin and is openly operating again and there are online groups openly trying to manipulate the prices of digital tokens in what are known as pump-and-dump schemes. Many have been able to expand quickly because they do not use bank accounts and therefore do not have to win approval from established institutions. Instead, they are able to use virtual currency “wallets” without any approvals. And virtual currency transactions cannot be reversed like normal bank or even PayPal transfers.

Facebook book announced last week that it would no longer allow advertisements for virtual currency projects and JPMorgan Chase and Bank of America said they would bar customers from using credit cards to purchase virtual currencies This follows the recent news that Coincheck, which had been one of the largest exchanges in Japan, announced that it had lost nearly half a billion dollars of a virtual currency in what appeared to be the largest hack to hit the industry.

However the biggest number of incidents have cropped up around initial coin offerings, in which entrepreneurs sell custom virtual currencies to investors to raise money for software they are building. About 890 projects raised over $6 billion last year. Most of the new virtual currency projects borrow their basic design from Bitcoin using a network of computers to maintain records so that no central government or authority is needed. That design has allowed the virtual currencies to grow fast with no regard for international borders, attracting followers from Zimbabwe to South Korea.

“It is a perfect storm for the kind of scammy activity we are seeing, and it’s not obvious to me how that is easily removed,” said Fred Wilson, a partner at the venture capital firm Union Square Venture and one of the earliest advocates of Bitcoin in Silicon Valley. “Regulation, ideally prudent and informed regulation, can help. But we may also need to have a big correction to really clean things up.”

Thailand Excise Tax Law

The industrialist, importer, service provider or other persons having excise burden under this Act shall have the duty to pay excise upon Ad Valorem Duty and/or Specific Duty of goods or service. Ad Valorem Duty is a tax whose amount is based on the value of a transaction or of property, rather than on their weight or the number of units. Specific duty is based on the weight, volume, item count or quantity regardless of monetary value or market price.

Businesses involved in the manufacturing, importing of goods or operating a service facility will be required to register for Excise tax. If the industrialist or service provider of a service facility has more than one factory or service facility, he shall submit a request separately for each factory or service facility. A request for excise registration must be submitted to the Excise Area Office where the factory, business office or service facility is located, within thirty days before the date of production, the start date of import, or the start date of service.

The excise tax shall be no more than the rate which is specified by the Excise Tariff Schedule. This shall apply at the time the excise liability arose.

Entertainment or recreation business which provides food and alcohol beverage (nightclub, discotheque, pub, bar, cocktail lounge) and close after midnight has to pay 10% tax from all income.

KEEPING IT SIMPLE

I have met people with substantial financial assets who are really ignorant of what their investment portfolios contain and what risk their investments entail. There is really no excuse for this unless you have too much money and can't be bothered to spend time understanding the risks and potential return of your holdings.

Investing is really simple.

Every investment falls into one of three categories; secure, balanced or speculative. So the next time you are presented with an investment opportunity ask yourself into which of these categories does it fall?

If you get an email from Nigeria promising you millions of dollars in return for your bank account details you know this is a high risk no-go investment.

An equity fund in India which has averaged 40% each year over the past few years is also a speculative fund but has potential do the same again.

A balanced investment is less likely to fluctuate wildly up and down. A good example is that of Corporate Bonds. These are debt instruments issued by blue chip companies which pay a return higher than bank interest rates. The higher the return above bank base rates the higher the risk.

A secure investment is generally regarded as a no risk one. Bank accounts, especially when guaranteed by the Government and all types of deposit investments fall into this category. Property which you have owned for a long time in a first world country, may also fall in here.

The key to contented investing is to match your individual risk profile with what is available. If you ask most people what they expect from their investments the chances are they will tell you they want very high returns with little or no risk. If I tell them at outset that this is an impossible dream they are less likely to be disappointed when their speculative investment falls, or their conservative one underperforms. For every 1 or 2 percent gain above deposit rates there is a corresponding rise in risk.

And most important of all and the first question any sensible investor should ask is what sort of consumer protection do I get. If you hold the safest asset in the world and the company holding it goes bankrupt where do I stand?

Please take professional advice and sleep well. It's that simple.

2015 Honda CBR600, in more euphoric economic times, the 600-class sport bikes were getting significant upgrades every two years. But consumer tastes have shifted away from the race replicas and both manufacturers and buyers are more cautious these days. The pace of innovation has slowed, but that doesn't mean the bikes are slow. Today's test case is the Honda CBR600RR. CBRs have been a benchmark since the 600 class was invented. Egis awarded Bangkok Pink Line Monorail contract

Egis has just registered a new success in Thailand with the signature of a contract for the Bangkok metro's "Pink Line" as Project Consultant with its local partner Team Consult.

The first monorail in Thailand

The Pink Line, the country's first monorail project, has been planned as part of the "Mass Rapid Transit Master Plan" (M-MAP), an extensive programme to develop the public transport network in the Bangkok metropolitan region. Stretching 34.5 km, the future line will run between the north-western province of Nonthaburi and Thailand's capital city Bangkok. Its 42 trains will reach a maximum commercial speed of 80 km/h and carry more than 28,000 passengers per hour per direction, this improving the everyday journeys of more than 400,000 people.

The line will blend seamlessly into the existing transport network, offering connections with the Dark Red railway line, the Purple and Orange metro lines and the elevated Sukhumvit Line, part of the Bangkok Mass Transit System (BMTS).

From design to commissioning

Estimated to cost THB 53.5 billion (approximately €1.3 billion), the Pink Line Monorail is the first PPP project (public-private partnership) in Thailand to encompass the construction of infrastructure, the supply and installation of equipment (systems and rolling stock) and the operation and maintenance of the line.

The contract was awarded by the Thai Mass Rapid Transit Authority (MRTA) to the joint venture BSR, formed by BTS Group, Sino-Thai Engineering & Construction and Ratchaburi Electricity Generating Holding Plc.

The project management and construction supervision of the line will be led by the TEAM Group / Egis consortium for a three-year period. Egis will be specifically responsible for design review, manufacturing supervision, installation and testing of all the systems (including the Monorail supplied by Bombardier, together with track switches) up until the commencement of revenue service.

Egis in Asia

Egis has built up a solid reputation in urban transit and railway transportation engineering in Asia, in particular in Thailand with several noteworthy contracts in recent years on Bangkok's metro lines (Blue Line, Green Line and Orange Line) and in Indonesia with the Palembang light metro project. These achievements, which come in addition to those in other sectors in the region, illustrate Egis' interest in the Asian market and offer confirmation of the Group's growing development in this vast region of the world.
