EUROPVC WINDOWS & DOORS

Let the light in but not the heat with Europvc and hurry because this month there's 20% off!

The September offer at 20% off means a typical double glazed window fitted will only cost 12,500.00

The Trader went to visit Europvc a local company with over 25 years experience in the manufacturing and installation of best quality UPVC windows and doors. They have had their Pattaya showroom in its current location on the corner of Soi 34 Sukhumvit road (between Pattaya central junction and Pattaya North junction) since 2007 and during all this time have acquired many satisfied customers. Whether providing replacement windows and doors for individual home owners or working alongside developers on large scale projects their 10 year guarantee makes them an extremely reputable firm. This is further backed up by the quality of all the European materials they use such as the window and door profiles by Aluplast. This is a company that appeared in the TOP 100 most innovative companies in Germany in both 2016 and 2017 and have Europvc as their approved and certified supplier here in Thailand..

Aaron from Europvc told me that over 10 years ago when the company first formed he picked up a copy of when the company first formed he picked up a copy of The Pattaya Trader to look at all the developers in the Property section and it was from this listing that he got his first business in the area. Andrew Neely of Oceans Edge Condominium was one such contact and so delighted has he been with the collaboration that he says of Europvc "cost is always a factor, but more important to me is the quality, reliability and aftersales service that they offer".

So why should you be looking at Europvc when it comes to buying new windows? Aluplast have produced upvc profiles to cope with the high UV levels that we face here in a tropical climate, so windows are guaranteed not to twist and warp or discolour. All of the windows and doors are fitted with tinted glass which in turn, protects soft furnishings from turning yellow.

Reduce your home's energy consumption

then you will cut down your electricity usage drastically reducing your bills - good for your wallet and good for the planet.

Many people assume that double glazing is only used 'to keep heat in' and so isn't necessary in tropical climates but the same properties that allow double glazing to keep a home in Europe warm throughout the winter are the same that will keep your home cool in Thailand all year round.

Great windows and doors will also help to ## Reduce noise

The air space between the 2 panes as well as providing the maximum efficiency in air-con insulation also allows for noise reduction which is crucial for any of us living in the more lively and raucous parts of Pattaya. You might also want to;

How long would it take them to get into your home with poor quality aluminum , less than 60 seconds.

DONT BE A TARGET WHEN YOU LEAVE IT .

Protect your home from intruders large and small

For as we mention on page 55 Dengue fever is on the increase and now more than ever getting fly screens fitted is important in keeping those pesky mosquitoes out Europvc have Concertina Fly Screens perfect for large openings and doors and also retractable roller fly screens. As with everything they provide these and a surveyor will come to your home to expertly measure and discuss a convenient fitting schedule with you.

The larger intruders (burglars) - in nearly all cases gain entry through the window so secure safety glass is what you need For example have laminated glass which is held in place by an interlayer that keeps the glass bonded. So even when broken.it holds together in a "spider web" cracking pattern when the impact is not enough to completely pierce the glass. That coupled with multipoint locking on both windows and doors will mean that those ugly bars that you might have inherited can now be taken away. This in turn will

Improve the look of your property

As not just removing bars but adding good looking windows and doors to your house or condo will altogether improve its overall appearance and add value if you are looking to sell on. Therefore it is no false economy to look at your glazing now and in the long run the cost savings will make you glad you did.

Enhance the look of your home and add value

When its completed our customers nearly always say "why did we leave it so long " without 20% off

This month's cover features Europvc a company that has long been established in Pattaya providing homes and projects with the very best UPVC windows and doors. Great for security, making your home look good, reducing noise and best of all cutting down the electricity bills by cutting down on your home's energy consumption. Following on from last month's Trader Goes Green issue this is a good thing for both you and the environment.

Also following on from our articles about the "Battle Against Plastic" I have to say 7/11 seem to be bowing to a bit of public pressure and doing a few things to address the plastic bag issue. My local branch for example has recently added a box in which to "recycle you plastic bags". The staff no longer automatically put my purchases in bags but ask me first, or in the cases of those who know me - slide the purchases straight across the counter to me.

Also I see that one of the offers for this low season's stamp with purchase promotion is a rather charming 7/11 bag which one might certainly use as a bag for life - complete with a rather sweet "Coffee shape" tag. Also on a trip to a pharmacy recently I saw that they had posted "This Pharmacy will stop providing patients with a free plastic bag. To support the environment we now charge for them and encourage you to bring your own bag."

Come on people keep it going!

A GREAT DAY OUT FOR THE CHILDREN OF THE ASEAN EDUCATION CENTER

Children from the ASEAN Education Center (Drop in Center) were invited by Rotary Club Eastern Seaboard Club members and The Avana Hotel Laemchabang, for a great morning of fun and food.

The MD Khun Arno Glasmacher and his wife made the 58, Children, staff and helpers very welcome. They arrived at 9.30 a.m. to a buffet breakfast and enjoyed 2 hours in the excellent salt water pool afterwards enjoying a buffet lunch, all laid on by the hotel.

ADG Rodney James Charman and President Brian Songhurst would like to thank Khun Radchada Chomjinda (Toy), the hotel management and the staff for giving the children such a lovely day. They all returned back to the center talking non-stop about the wonderful time they had enjoyed.

Employees Family Day at Thai Garden Resort

The Thai Garden Resort hosted its 10th-annual family day for employees giving them a chance to partake in all the hotel's activities just as if they were guests at the hotel. 300 Moms, Dads and kids enjoyed a fantastic day at the huge swimming where everyone took turns jumping, swimming and having a great time,

General Manager Rene Pistors personally took care of the "guests" and said "I find it essential that the family members of our team are aware where their husbands, wives, fathers or mothers spend their days working. We regard ourselves as one big family and our team members are the ones who contribute to the success of the hotel and the satisfaction of our clients."

A sumptuous lunch buffet was also prepared and many children have already asked when next year's family day will be ?

Press release Thai Garden Resort

Mr. Rene Pistors the General Manager of Thai Garden Resort is pleased to announce the appointment of Mr. Leroy Coster as new Guest Service Manager of Thai Garden Resort. Mr. Coster will assist the General Manager to oversee the day-to-day operations of the Resort and be available as multi- language contact person to assist the hotel guests.

Mr. Pistors, stated: "We are very pleased to have Leroy Coster joining the Thai Garden Resort team. I am very confident that with his support and dedication towards our clients, new heights can be reached to maintain and surely improve the high standard of service and guest satisfaction at the Thai Garden Resort.

A Dutch National who graduated from the Hotel University in Leeuwarden, the Netherlands. Mr. Coster speaks fluent Dutch, English and German and has a strong background in Food & Beverage management. He brings with him several years of experience in the hospitality industry at international hotel chains in Thailand. His career started with the Centara Group of Hotels in Krabi before moving on to Koh Samui where he worked for Amari & OZO hotels.

When asked about his new appointment at Thai Garden Resort, Mr. Coster commented, "I am delighted to be joining the team at the Garden Resort since the hotel is well established in Pattaya and has a great reputation both locally as well as overseas. I am looking forward to this new challenge in my career.

COMING TO THE SMALL SCREEN

Iron Fist (Season 2)

After the recent excellent season of Luke Cage can Marvel do it again with Iron Fist? The first Season was the least popular of the TV shows so we shall see.

Like the Marvel Film universe the TV shows overlap as all these Super Heroes live in the same City.

This season follows on from the plot line started in the Defenders season one. Danny Rand must now face Typhoid Mary a brutal new opponent. Ten episodes of Martial arts action with the power of the Iron Fist.

The good cop (Season 1)

New comedy show starring Tony Danza who you may remember from " Taxi " all those years ago.

Here Danza plays disgraced former NYPD officer. His Son Tony Jr lives with him and is also a NYPD detective, however Junior is obsessively honest and never strays from the rules.

Tony Sr tries to guide his son on how to handle his police work and even his love life. The differences between the two leads to much fun, like a cop version of the "odd couple".

Maniac (Season 1)

When a new Pharmaceutical treatment promises to fix any mental problems, Annie Landsberg and Owen Millgrim sign up for the drug trial in order to solve their problems.

This show is an adaptation of the Norwegian TV show of the same name. Directed by Cary Fukunaga who directed the first season of True Detectives, sounds promising.

If you enjoyed Black Mirror then you may also enjoy this black Comedy miniseries starring Jonah Hill and Emma Stone.

Recommended Series: Breaking Bad.

Set in Albuquerque New Mexico the story of Walter White one time chemistry genius but now frustrated and depressed high school teacher diagnosed with Lung cancer. After witnessing a drugs bust during a ride along with his DEA agent brother- in- law Walter decides to turn to a life of crime in order to leave his family financially secure after his demise.

He seeks out former student and now drug dealer Jesse Pinkman and produces very high quality Crystal Methamphetamine. Of course the pair have to face many perils and a steep learning curve when entering the drug distribution business. Bryan Cranston previously from Malcolm in the middle gives an outstanding performance, as does Aaron Paul as Jesse. In 2013 the show entered the Guinness World Records as the most critically acclaimed show of all time. There are five seasons out there waiting for you.

Coming Soon to The Big Screen

THE PILC Christmas Bazaar

As the year continues to fly on by, already events at Christmas are starting to be advertised around the city. And the number 25 seems to be very popular with the Pattaya International Ladies Club (PILC) as this year they are having their 25th Christmas Bazaar on Sunday 18th November.

A real family event held annually by PILC, the ever popular Pattaya Christmas Bazaar will be celebrating its quarter of a century of providing yuletide entertainment for kids and adults alike. The auspicious venue is the Holiday Inn on Pattaya Beach Road, which is happy to host this premier fundraising event. As usual Santa will be there to cast good tidings over proceedings and bring some early Christmas cheer to all that attend.

There will be over seventy vendors selling all manner of Christmas produce that will be ideal as unique Christmas presents or great adornments to your home decorations. While you are busy shopping for bargains your kids can go and meet Santa and whisper in his ear what they want for Christmas.

The cafe at the Hilton is a great place to meet up with friends and have a chat, perhaps even have a go on the PILC Christmas Bazaar Charity Raffle. The Raffle is famed for its great prizes and this year will be no exception, plus all the profits go to charity, so spend freely and help many great local causes.

Pattaya International Ladies Club

Pattaya International Ladies Club was founded in 1987, and from small acorns large trees grow. Today PILC has over two hundred active members that come from over thirty different countries. However, back in 1987 PILC started with just thirty members their goal to provide expatriate women with a great monthly networking meetings and the opportunity to network, make friends, have fun and socialise in a wide range of regular activities that include sports and cultural pursuits.

PILC has always had an open door policy and welcomes newcomers who have recently come to settle on the Eastern Seaboard and in particular Pattaya. This often helps wives of businessmen to settle and have their own social circles. The club also has a strong commitment to supporting local and needy communities through several welfare projects. And events such as the Christmas Bazaar enable PILC to continue its fundraising efforts and aid good causes. As well as raising much needed money, the ladies of PILC volunteer their time and services to a variety of projects that continue throughout the year.

So why not head down to the Holiday Inn Pattaya on Sunday 18th November 2018? The entrance fee is 150 baht and kids under 12 are allowed in for free. Have a great time with your family and friends whilst helping out with much needed fundraising for important local causes.

GAME RELEASES

Spiderman

At this years E3 the latest Spiderman game received much praise and attention.

This latest release promises an even larger open world. featuring plenty of Aerial combat, use of Spidey sense along with a great variety of moves to use against your enemies.

I have enjoyed past Spiderman games, and the feeling of just traversing the city by web or wall crawling, its a fun game to play.

Expect to encounter many of the usual Spidey Foes and characters out now for Playstation 4.

Fifa 19

Is this really the 19th release of the Fifa franchise? With every release published we get closer to real life, a far cry from my childhood days of playing Sabbuteo, table football.

So what's new this time out? A feature called "Timed Finishing" . Now you are able to control how accurately you strike the ball, from precision headers or taking a shot from just outside the box to even just a deft touch.

Fan's of the series will get the most out of this, adding more skill into their matches for some spectacular results.

Spyro reignited.

After the great success of the Crash Bandicoot Trilogy remasters, it's Spyro's turn to get a make over.

The first three games in this series are included; Spyro the Dragon, Spyro 2: Ripto's Rage and Spyro year of the Dragon.

The game now looks stunning in HD using the powerful Unreal 4 game Engine, and also has much new detail added.

Control a cute purple baby dragon in this Mario 3D type game, great for younger gamers. Out this month for PS4 and Xbox One.

The Grape Trail

Some Like it Cold

If you've ever stayed at up-country hotels in The Land of Smiles, you've probably experienced a breakfast of stone-cold fried eggs, which are really not much to smile about. It's odd really, because cold hard boiled eggs taste fine but cold fried eggs just don't cut it. Come to think of it, many of the things we eat and drink have an ideal temperature. With a few exceptions, salads and soups like gazpacho and vichyssoise are traditionally served cold, because they taste better that way and a lower temperature keeps salad leaves crisp. Most people prefer to drink ice-cold milk yet cold bread and cheese are hard and unappetising. Food experts agree that the ideal temperature for cheese is 22°C (72°F) and a paper published in 2005 by the Journal of Sensory Studies found that the temperature of Cheddar cheese affected the taste, which should hardly have come as a surprise. The study found that the warmer the cheese, the more pronounced was its characteristic sour flavour. And in case you're wondering, the optimum temperature for chocolate is evidently around 20-22°C (71-72°F).

The temperature of wine is even more critical which is why the recommended serving temperature is sometimes printed on the back label. If wine is too cold, the aromas remain hidden and the taste feels tight and closed. Cold reds taste bitter and tannic but warm wines, whether red or white feel unpleasantly flabby in the mouth and lose their refreshing quality.

I'm sure you've heard the old cliché that reds should be served "at room temperature". It's time we buried this myth for good, because it's nonsense. It implies that all red wines should be served at the same temperature, which simply isn't true. And in our climate, the expression "room temperature" is rather meaningless. As I am typing this, the temperature in my study with all the windows open is currently 33°C (91°F) and the dogs are lying around in listless heaps. Only a nutcase would serve wine at this temperature.

Full-bodied, rich reds are best around 16°-17°C; medium lighter-bodied reds at 13°-15°C and very light reds at 12°C. Rosé wines usually taste better around 8°C which is only a few degrees above fridge temperature. White wines taste better at lower temperatures. Full-bodied whites and fino sherry are best at 11°C; light whites at 9°-10°C and sweet wines or sparklers at 6°-8°C. In a tropical country, the best place to keep your wine is in the fridge unless you can afford a refrigerated wine cupboard. If in doubt, serve wine too cool rather than too warm because in this neck of the woods it will warm up fast enough. You can't really check the temperature by sticking your finger in the glass and if you are serious about these things, invest in a wine thermometer. Lazada has a good selection at affordable prices. And by the way, if you are more comfortable using Fahrenheit, multiply the Celsius figure by 2, subtract 10% and then add 32. It's not very scientific but it's near enough.

YNot Premium White Bin 931 (Australia)

When I see bottles of wine sporting clever trade names, I usually avoid them like the plague. It's usually an indication that the wine is a crowd-pleaser with a feeble aroma and a finish as satisfying as an ice lolly. So it was with some hesitation that I plucked a bottle of YNot off the shelf. But it's quite a clever pun and I only wanted it to jazz up the mushroom sauce. It turned out to be much better than I expected for a wine at Bt 380. It has an unmistakable, if slightly one-dimensional whiff of pineapple and tropical fruit which is typical of a warm-climate Chardonnay. It's a smooth, light-to-medium bodied dryish wine with plenty of fruit on the palate and a pleasingly mild touch of acidity. There's a decently long finish too and at only 12% ABV it would make an attractive aperitif. It would work well with light chicken dishes and it certainly gave a great lift to my mushroom sauce. The wine tasted fine at about 9°-10°C and it's currently available at Central and some larger branches of Tops.

YNot Dry Red Bin 5 (Australia)

Here's a rich red with a sumptuous aroma of dark fruit. There's a hint of mint too, giving the impression that there's a good dollop of Shiraz in the blend. With plenty of rich black fruit on the palate and a lovely smooth and silky texture, the wine has just enough tannin to firm up the body. It's well-rounded with a surprisingly long finish and comes at a whopping 14.5% ABV which is pretty well the top of the tree for table wines. It will show well at 17-18°C but if you want to emphasise the tannins, try a few degrees lower. If you like big, bold wines you'll probably enjoy this one. It would be a good partner for richly flavoured beef dishes or indeed any meat dishes with assertive flavours. It's too powerful for pizza, even a rich spicy one, because the flavours and textures will clash. And yes, since you asked, I tried.

The Under the Roof Club

Last month we told you about The Under the Roof Club who are based here in Pattaya but have identified a real need to help one of the most isolated communities the Mae Hong Son Province in Northern Thailand.

(you can still read the full article from our website www.pattayatrader.com on our Expat Living page)

The people in these villages live in some of the most hazardous and unforgiving terrain in Northern Thailand. Many survive by weaving and selling beautiful textiles but during the rainy season when flooding can lead to extremely dangerous conditions they become cut off from the rest of the country. Muddy, slippery mountain roads are extremely dangerous and only experienced drivers can manage to reach these villages and especially the children suffer having to travel long distances just to get a basic education.

The aim of The Under the Roof club is to raise money to build schools in the main villages and also to provide them with food, clothing, school supplies and solar panels for electricity. The Pai Border Police will be helping with the construction and distribution of all the supplies. It costs around 500,000 baht to build each school and as soon as the first 500,000 baht has been raised, the building of the first school will start.

The Under The Roof webpage undertheroof.club and further articles in The Pattaya Trader will keep everyone updated with photos of the construction progress. There will be full transparency and all donations from companies and individuals will be detailed on the undertheroof.club website.

How you can help:

If you want to send food, clothing, kitchen utensils school supplies they can be dropped off at Karen Visa Services Soi 10, Theprasit road

Monetary donations can be paid into SCB Account no 0863 244 575-5

Please email : undertheroof2018@gmail.com to advise, so that they can then update the donation on their website: undertheroof.club

ALIBABA ALL YOU COULD EVER WANT FROM A TRADITIONAL INDIAN RESTAURANT

The Last time Pattaya Trader visited Alibaba we wrote about The Thali - a great dish if you want to try a small selection of different dishes (non vegetarian or vegetarian) or are pushed for time and just want a quick meal. So this time we thought we'd show what you can select if you have more time and would like a full Indian meal taken from the extensive menu at Alibaba. that covers traditional Indian fare from all parts of the country.

We also wanted to try few new selections for example succulent kebabs moist and spicy and butterfly prawns - a big enough helping for 2 to share at 345 baht. These were crispy with excellent batter crunchy and not at all greasy so easy to pick up by hand and share. Then continuing with the prawn theme a Prawn Marlia Curry accompanied by Paneer Tikka Tawa Masala, Lamb Tikka Masala and because I personally can never eat an Indian meal without Dal a Dal Makhani. For those of you who also love Daal dishes this one hails from the Punjab region in northern India and is made using black whole urad dal often known as "The King of Dals" as this type was traditionally used for celebratory meals.

Whilst enjoying the robust, rich flavours of our meal we had a look around the restaurant and remarked how well laid out it is. Wherever you sit it feels cosy and intimate. there are lots of tables but the restaurant layout is such that it allows for any number of combinations anything from a table for 2 to a private dining party of 36! The attentive staff in their traditional costumes and the colourful decor also add to the experience but then they should know what they're doing Alibaba has been in Pattaya for over 30 years now !

THE SPORTSMAN

The Sportsman Pub and Restaurant, has long been my favourite place to enjoy a Sunday Roast. When I'm feeling somewhat nostalgic for a British pub this really fits the bill. To my mind it's the best Sunday Roast Carvery in town and what makes it stand out for me is the fact that they offer 2 joints of beef - one slightly less done for people like me who prefer their beef a little pink in the middle and oh that Cauliflower Cheese ! However I digress, on this occasion Dining in Detail was there to focus on the All-you-can-eat pizza, pasta, salad buffet, available between 6:00 and 10:00pm,

The Sportsman was busy, especially for low season, as this is obviously a popular Friday treat and tremendous value at just 249 per customer with not just pizza but an ample salad and pasta offering in the mix as well.

If like me you are always happy to see potato salad at a buffet then The Sportsman will not disappoint for they are no stranger to private functions and can often be seen putting on a spread for outside catering functions visit www.partyfoodpattaya.com for more information on this. Salad, tomatoes, cucumber and coleslaw were also much in evidence to give you the feeling that you are putting a healthy start to your meal before loading up on the delicious carbs to follow! There's also plenty of garlic bread and some delicious little onion and olive sticks to get you started.

Then it's time for the main Pizza and Pasta event. Darren and his team were kept busy constantly filling up from the hatch from the kitchen sumptuous pizzas where there is no skimping on the topping plentiful pepperoni and barbecued chicken especially. There were also Margarita and Hawaiian options. A crunchy thin base with generous toppings made for very acceptable buffet pizza..

With the pasta, on the Friday we visited there was a choice of either spaghetti or macaroni with Carbonara Bolognese, Tomato and basil or cheese sauces available. So I have to say a really excellent selection with absolutely something for everyone. I also particularly like the fact that the friendly staff at the Sportsman don't rush you or hover over the table to sweep everything away the second you put your cutlery down - as I have found in other establishments and which is my current pet hate. They are attentive but do not rush or hassle customers which I am sure has much to do with the hands-on management.

If you haven't tried The Sportsman or have only been there on a Sunday then head down Soi 13, between Pattaya Beach Road and Second Road to check out the Friday buffet - you won't be disappointed!

THE KEY TO HEALTHY EATING

EAT HEALTHY

In this issue of the Pattaya Trader while we are looking at ways to save the planet and reduce our carbon footprints it is great to see a company such as Pattaya Clean Food reinforce all these great ideas with their company policy.

The company was started by Khun Nid who first had the idea for Pattaya Clean Food after being advised that she needed to lose weight due to a medical condition. Even though she tried a strict exercise programme she only lost 2 kilos and then no more. So she then decided that exercise in isolation just wouldn't do it and started looking at what she was eating. Choosing to take more care of what she was putting in her body she opted for fresh organic foods prepared into daily portions of low fat, healthy meals. Very soon on this new regime combined with her regular exercise programme after just 2 months she lost a further 16 kilos and friends and colleagues were so impressed they asked her about the secret of her success. So Khun Nid decided to share these recipes and freshly sourced foods with her friends setting up a Facebook page where they could view the recipes and order from her.

Fast forward to today and meals are available to order from as little as 80 baht (chicken and egg varieties) and 120 baht for shrimp and fish meals. It is also now possible to get these delicious options delivered to your door with 5, 6 or even 7 day meal plans available in the Central Pattaya area. Although Khun Nid also has some customers who order in bulk from her as far away as Siracha and Sattahip.

So what are you waiting for to try these delicious, healthy sets

PATTAYA PEOPLE TELEVISION – CLASSIC & MODERN RADIO – 96FM

If you are as old as I am and can remember the joy of listening to a tiny transistor radio hidden underneath your pillow so your mum wouldn't realize that you were not sleeping but instead checking out the latest pop music in the U.K. as the signal faded in and out from Radio Luxembourg and Radio Caroline, then don't you think that bringing back those memories would be a joy? The music from those times is well featured on 96FM and it's now possible to recreate these childhood feelings. Classic radios are making a comeback and retro copies of the designs from the 50s and 60s can now be found online or in shops. I recently bought the red Nano radio in Makro and delight in the look and sound of it, especially the silver tuning and volume knobs.

The majority of the radio listening audience are travelling in cars but there is a growing number of online listeners and those who are discovering the FM tuning option on their Smartphones. There are also many options to choose a modern style of radio with USB inputs and Bluetooth, some of which include a docking station for your Smartphone so that it can be charging whilst using the larger quality speakers to play through.

There are so many options to listen to Pattaya People Radio 96FM, that no excuses will be accepted for not doing so. Brighten up your life with the amazing playlist brought to you by me, Barry Upton, someone who really knows his music and has put together a variety of classic and modern sounds to compliment the lively and vibrant city of Pattaya. No rap, no boring moody songs, no tracks that no one wants to hear these days and no monotonous R&B of the type going around which has not progressed in many years. Only the very best upbeat rock and pop handpicked from the last six decades makes it onto the 24 hours of fun that is 96FM – Pattaya People Radio.

You know you really want to.

THE PHYSICAL AND MENTAL BENEFITS OF FISHING

Fishing is a rewarding sport it can be exciting and relaxing at the same time. It is also a wonderful and often overlooked way to burn calories while having fun outside. Many people assume fishing just means sitting around in a boat or on the bank waiting for a float to go under, but it can be so much more than that. In reality, there are many types of fishing that challenge you both physically and mentally. From stalking rising trout while wading in a mountain stream to kayaking on the open ocean while trolling any sea fish, there is a type of fishing that will keep your mind and body engaged no matter your interest or experience level. If you are looking for a way to de-stress, stay fit, and enjoy being outside, fishing might just be for you.

One of the not-so-evident benefits of fishing is that it is a great way to get some exercise. Of course, you aren't going to burn many calories sitting on the shore and drinking beer but an active day spent wading in a stream or hiking to a remote lake is a fantastic way to get a workout without going to a gym or a yoga class. Consider that a person of average body mass and fitness level will burn about 250 calories in an hour of walking on a treadmill. Actively fishing can involve a number of activities, such as wading against the current in a stream, hiking, repeatedly casting and reeling, and even climbing or boulder hopping in certain kinds of terrain. It is estimated that even light wade fishing burns over twice as many calories over a one-hour period. During a morning or afternoon of fishing, you could burn from 500-1,500 calories without even realizing it

Fishing also calls upon small muscle groups we don't normally use and helps us build fine motor skills. Navigating rough terrain and slippery rocks while resisting the current in a river challenges your balance, building strength in the little-used muscles and tendons in your feet, ankles, calves, and shins. Hiking up steep slopes or riverbanks builds strength in the large muscles of your legs, such as the quadriceps and hamstrings. These activities also provide a solid cardiovascular workout. The best fishermen learn to develop casting accuracy through practice. This helps build hand-eye coordination and strengthens the small muscles in your hands, wrists, forearms, biceps, triceps, and shoulders. Fishing is such a great, low-impact activity that it is widely used as a rehabilitation therapy by psychologists, counselors, and physical therapists. The U.S. Veterans Health Administration has adopted the use of fly fishing and fly tying as a recreational therapy for injured military veterans because these calming, repetitive, low-impact activities help them regain strength and the use of their muscles. Although it may not feel like it while you are out on the water, spending a few hours at the river or lake can be a great workout. Going fishing is not only a fabulous way to stay active and healthy but it is also a perfect activity to help calm your mind, relax, and let go of the stress in your life.

Fishing is a reflective and meditative activity that forces you to slow down and enjoy your surroundings. People fish for many reasons. Some fish just for food and some for sport, while others just want an excuse to be outside or get together with friends. No matter what gets them out there, any fisherman can attest to the supreme sense of relaxation and calmness that spending a morning or evening doing their favorite activity provides. This very quality has made fishing a popular therapeutic exercise used by counselors and therapists who work with people with chronic illnesses, and others who have experienced trauma in their lives.

Whether you are trying to cast to a far-away pocket on the opposite side of the stream or observing an insect hatch to determine what the fish are biting on, fishing challenges your mind and demands your undivided attention. As fishing requires focus, it helps take a person's mind off internal conflict. Locating fish, developing a strategy, choosing the correct fly or lure, and properly presenting that lure to the fish all require critical thinking and creativity, which allow a healthy escape from stress, depression, and anxiety. This has been proven in clinical studies in which cortisol (a hormone linked to stress) levels were measured in a group of Iraq war veterans before and after a weekend of fishing. Those who had been on the fishing trip experienced lower levels of cortisol for as many as three weeks afterward. Researchers noted that their patients slept better, expressed lower levels of depression and anxiety, experienced fewer symptoms of somatic stress, and were far less likely to experience the feelings of guilt, hostility, fear, or sadness normally associated with PTSD and traumatic experiences.

For ladies, fly fishing expeditions are now also a key element of the program which serves to organize fly fishing trips for survivors of breast cancer, both as a therapeutic measure and as a form of physiotherapy. This ground breaking service in the US, provides free fly fishing retreats as a means to make support groups for breast cancer survivors more accessible.

One of the greatest things about fishing is that anyone can participate. It doesn't matter how fit you are, whether you are old or young. It is one of the world's most popular recreational activities allowing us to explore our natural world and stay active well into old age. Fishing is a calming, enjoyable activity that has the power to transform your outlook on life. Try grabbing a rod and heading for the river.

You may just REEL in a better way to live.....Tight Lines and stay healthy

PAGS Tournament from Bangpra

A Mixed Bag of Scores the Order of the Day

Gerd Riedler in Action

and his own Long Drive on #18. Gerd just edged Garry on a countback 23/22 after Garry took an 8 for 0 on the 18th, so Gerd deserved the golfer of the day honour. Craig Duncan (13) picked up the 3rd spot in the A Flight with a steady 36 points, edging out the unlucky Rabbitohs supporter Manny Defferos on a countback.

Michael Cooney (20) got the top spot in B flight (14 – 20) with another good score on the day of 39 points, while Craig Banks (14) got 2nd also with 39 points and Craig Muldoon (20) with his back 9 of 19 relegating Mikael Andersson to the also rans, after both signed for 36 points.

C flight (21+) obviously struggled with the playing conditions of the day, Tim Knight (29) leading the way with a comparatively meagre total of 34 points, to go with his NTP on #17. The minor placings were a hard fought affair with 3 players needing countbacks to separate the placegetters. Carl Thompson (30) and Todd Fox (35) ended up with the prizes, while Sugar Ray Handford was the unlucky golfer there.

Supranna Dokkhaoram (30) was the successful ladies winner with a solid 37 points, to go with her long putt on #3.

There were also several multiple technical prize winners who deserve special mention, some featuring in Flight results, some not. At the top of the list is Lek Wilson, along with Steve Truelove and Paul Smith who all got at least 2 technicals.

As always, Dave's crew did a fantastic job of keeping all the golfers and their guests gastronomically satisfied. To book your preferred time slots for a PAGS event book with Shane on 0863720084 or through Birdie at www.birdie.in.th

The day started off a little overcast, with a light breeze blowing to keep the humidity down, for our first time at Bangpra. The weather remained steady throughout the day, while the course was overall only in fair condition, certainly not in the condition of years past. The field of 91 which included only 2 Ladies, continued to play at a steady pace, with rounds mostly in the 4 hour 30 minute range.

As with most months, there is generally a standout performer or 2 on the day. This month it was hard to split Low Gross & A flight winner, Gerd Riedler (10) with his 41 points and a Long Drive on #9, from 2nd place getter in A Flight, Garry Bright (12) with his 41 points, to go with an approach on 15

Gerd Riedler - Low Gross & A Flight Winner

Raldorf and Engstler Battle Their Way to a Bang Saen Podium

The Unixx TR-Motorsport Team rolled into the coastal town of Bang Saen for rounds 5 & 6 of the Thailand Super Series.

GTM Supercar Class

Thomas Raldorf - Franz Engstler – Porsche 997

After the issues that plagued the team in rounds 3 & 4 at The Chang International Circuit in Buriram, the focus now was to get back into contention for the title race on the tight, twisty streets of Bang Saen. The team welcomed Franz Engstler AKA Mr Motorsport who would be Co-driver with Thomas Raldorf for the weekend. Franz Engstler needs no introduction as he has one of the finest racing pedigrees on the planet and is a welcome addition to the team. Franz soon got to grips with the 997 in the practice sessions as both he and Thomas constantly bettered their times. As qualifying arrived the team were in confident mood and the drivers delivered with Franz taking 4th on the grid for Race 1 and Thomas going two places better with 2nd on the grid for Race 2.

Race 1

As the lights went green on the rolling start, Franz, who was driving the first stint of the race was slow off the line as second gear wouldn't initially engage and was quickly passed on the main straight by the two Toyotas, dropping him down to 6th, after a few consolidation laps Franz was soon on the tail of 5th place. The circuit is notoriously difficult to pass as Franz weaved left and right to try to get a run on the 5th place and his persistence eventually paid off squeezing past the #38 Toyota GT86. 24 minutes into the one hour race and Franz was all over the back of the 4th place GT86 who made a big mistake smashing into the wall completely destroying the front right section of the car resulting in the safety car being deployed and Franz, after some evasive driving to avoid the accident moving into 4th place overall.

The safety car allowed all the cars to bunch up giving Franz another opportunity to gain more places at the restart. A few laps into the safety car period the #38 Toyota following behind pulled into the pits for the Compulsory Pit Stop (CPS) and driver changeover. The Unixx TR-Motorsport pit crew decided to follow suit to negate any chances of the undercut. Franz was informed over the radio to box, box, box and he duly confirmed, however, the team were then told pitting under the safety car is not allowed, the team tried to relay this to Franz but his radio was down so in he came to the pits as originally asked.

As the safety car was still deployed Thomas quickly caught up to the back of the pack and when the safety car pulled in, the cars in front made their CPS leaving Thomas in first place by 23 seconds. However, due to the pit stop infringement the team were under investigation and were duly black flagged a short time after, disqualifying them along with the #38 Toyota who also committed the same infringement. A lesson learned as valuable championship points were lost.

Race 2

Although disappointed from the pit stop confusion in Race 1, the team were still confident of a good haul of points for Race 2. They were several casualties from Race 1 that didn't start the race leaving just a field of six as the lights went green. The pole position Ferrari 488 challenge quickly showed its speed as it started to break away from the chasing pack, while Thomas fought hard to hold off the B-Quik Porsche. The remaining #38 Toyota suffered brake failure on the very first lap and ended up in the barriers, the safety car was deployed soon after as the marshals removed the stricken car.

As the safety car pulled in the 488 challenge once again pulled away quickly leaving Thomas to defend his 2nd place from the faster B-Quik Porsche. The top three cars were constantly setting fastest laps and Thomas was starting to catch the Ferrari. By the time pit window opened the top three were separated by just over one second.

During the driver change over an issue with belts lost the team valuable seconds and when Franz eventually got going he was several seconds behind the Ferrari. The very next lap the B-Quik Porsche made their CPS and got out well ahead of both Franz and the leading Ferrari. Franz now had a mammoth task ahead with a 21-second gap to the leading Porsche. Peter Jaeger, TR-Motorsport Race Engineer got on the radio and asked for 4 more tenths per lap, Franz gave him an extra second as he continued the chase.

As the race wore on, the Ferrari, which was originally 16 seconds behind the B-Quik car was now all over the back of the Porsche and challenging for the lead. With only a few minutes of the race left, the two cars fighting for the lead approached a backmarker and as the Porsche attempted to block the Ferrari and pass the back marker he braked off the racing line where there was less grip and could not slow the car down quick enough sending him into the barriers allowing the Ferrari through to take the lead. Although the Porsche managed to get going again, significant damage to the front right of the car allowed Franz to quickly catch up and overtake him to claim a very hard fought 2nd place.

Franz drove back to the pit lane and was swamped by team members and jubilant fans celebrating a thrilling drive by the Danish Dynamo and Mr Motorsport to get the team on to the second step of the podium and some much-needed championship points.

In the race for the championship the team are now level on points with the Ferrari team in 2nd place and only 16 points behind the B-Quik team with a further 60 points available in the rounds 7 & 8, the Championship is still a possibility. The Porsche will be back on track for the final event of the season as they return to the Chang International Circuit in Buriram for the final rounds on October 23rd.

Engine Issues Can't Stop Tony Percy Maintaining Championship Lead

Tony Percy – Honda Integra DC5

Super 2000 / Thailand Touring Car Class

After his previous exploits in Buriram and now with an engine that had undergone a complete overhaul, both Tony and Unixx TR-Motorsport were in confident mood as they arrived early in the week at the Thai coastal town of Bang Saen.

Over previous years on the difficult street circuit Tony has always fallen just short of a podium place, mainly due to reliability issues, with the new overhaul and other improvements made to the DC 5, could 2018 be the year he finally ascends those steps?

Unfortunately, the week got off to the worst of starts, during the first practice session Tony was struggling to keep the car in a straight line leaving him unable to push the cars limits. Adjustments were made in between practice sessions but the issue still remained. A new steering rack was ordered from Bangkok and arrived the next day and was installed in time for qualifying.

Qualifying started and was soon stopped by a red flag as another car in Tony's class had careered into the barriers bringing the session to a halt. As the session restarted more bad luck befell Tony as the car was significantly down on power without any obvious reason. The veteran racer is not one to give up and still drove his heart out to take a respectable 8th place on the grid for Race 1. The team were once again left to reflect on what might have been had the car been on full power.

The decision was made to open the engine and after informing the stewards the team of mechanics got to work and soon discovered a blown head gasket that had further damaged the engine. The amount of work needed to repair the engine exceeded the time available, with this in mind the engine was replaced with the spare K20 engine overnight.

Due to breaking the engine seal and replacing the engine Tony would start at the very back of the grid and hope to mount a charge through the field, those thoughts were quickly dashed. After taking several positions within the first three corners disaster struck again, the Honda slowed and then eventually stopped out on track. When the car returned to the pits it was found that a nut holding the throttle cable in place had come loose causing the retirement.

In a bizarre twist of fate, every car in the same class failed to finish the race so although Tony was dejected the damage to his championship challenge was minimised.

Race 2 was a completely different affair, this time the charge from the back came and the car held together with Tony showing the crowds that age doesn't matter, storming through the field to take a very well deserved 2nd place and some valuable championship points to extend his lead in the title race.

Although not the weekend Tony and the team expected, to come away from it with a bigger lead in the championship is a great result. Thoughts now quickly turn to rounds 5 & 6 of the Thailand Super Series that will be held at the Bira International Circuit on the outskirts of Pattaya City on 31st August to September 2nd.

Stomach Virus Halts Victor's Charge - Victor Jensen – Honda Jazz -Super Production Class

Unxx TR-Motorsport's young Danish prodigy Victor Jensen was competing for the second time at Bang Saen, in 2017 the young Viking was racing a Toyota Vios in the One Make Race Series held during the Bang Saen Festival of Speed. This year Victor was in the more powerful TR-Motorsport Honda Jazz, and although a big jump in horsepower from the Toyota the transition was effortless as he soon got to grips with the unforgiving street circuit.

First practice didn't start well as Victor soon lost power steering due to an electrical issue followed by a number of accidents bringing out the red flag and ending the session, with Victor only managing one full race pace lap, albeit hindered by the steering issue. The steering issue could not be rectified by the second practice session but Victor still managed to post several competitive laps over 10 seconds faster than his Toyota Vios times the previous year. He ended the session in a commendable 6th place. The team of mechanics headed by Sven Thummel then set about fixing the steering issue before qualifying session the next day.

While the mechanics were busy in the pits Victor and his coach Thomas Raldorf studied the data from the car and compared it against previous years data and walked the track to find ways to eke out a few more tenths and improve Victor's racing lines on the tight and twisty circuit. The data analysis and track walk definitely worked as a fired up Victor blew away the more senior opposition to take Pole Position with a time that was 4 seconds faster than his best lap in free practice.

Race 1

As the lights went green Victor struggled to get the car off the line and fell back to 3rd place, over the next few laps the young driver regained focus, pushing hard at every corner and was soon on the tail of 2nd place. Victor pulled out of the slipstream to get alongside and narrowly beat him into the next corner to take the position. The lead car was 7 seconds down the track and Victor was on the hunt closing the gap to just 2 seconds after only a few laps, however, the Bang Saen street circuit is notoriously difficult to pass on and a wayward backmarker held up his charge dropping him back 6 seconds from Khun Yotsaron in the lead Honda City. With only a few laps remaining the determined Viking pushed again taking the fastest lap of the race but was unable to catch the eventual winner, Khun Yotsaron of Tein Team Thailand. Both Victor and the team were very happy with the 2nd place after all the steering issues that had plagued the preparation to the race.

Race 2

Victor had been suffering from a stomach virus all week which had abated as the weekend approached, however, the virus returned after Race 1 and intensified overnight leaving Victor light headed and lethargic, the decision was made by his coach Thomas that he was unfit to race and the car was removed from the grid. A big loss of points but the right decision was made, with Victor promising a big weekend for rounds 5 & 6 at the Bira International Circuit from August 31st – September 2nd.

A New Chapter In Bangkok's Rich Cultural History

The heart of our vibrant capital city is about to beat to a different rhythm this October when it becomes host to the internationally revered Art Biennale for the first time. Aptly positioned along the coastline of its cultural center, the Chao Phraya River, the city's pulsating artery will welcome 75 artists from 33 countries in a number of historically significant locations.

The first ever Biennale began in Venice over 120 years ago as a showcase of contemporary art. With over 500,000 attendees enjoying the works displayed in Venice every two years, the hope is that Bangkok will begin its biennial journey into the artworlds historical footnotes and revel in the same success.

One thing is for certain, art is a major part of Bangkokonians life on a day to day basis. The city is wash with artistic expression from graffitied walls to architectural masterpieces incorporating both modern and historic works in their structures and then there is the everyday elements we tend to miss, the expressions created by the owner of our local coffee shop for example. Home to so much religious artwork and the cultural pieces conveying the capital's multicultural heritage, it really is already an art festival of sorts every moment of every day all year round. With a large bulk of the tourism to the city coming to indulge in the creativity Thailand has to offer them in its varying forms, it is almost natural for the city to host such a prestigious event.

So, the Bangkok Art Biennale (BAB), starting in October and running for 4 months until the middle of February will no doubt enrich the experience of annual visitors during the peak tourist season but should also draw a volume of art enthusiasts as well. A perfect opportunity for young native artists to flaunt their creations to a global audience, but it isn't just about Thailand's homegrown talent - although there are many fortunate enough to be selected to celebrate the festival - there are artists from all four corners of the globe befalling the city.

Some of the internationals bringing their artistic flair to BAB are household names, artists such as Marina Abramovic, Aurèle Ricard, Lee Bul, Francesco Clemente and Fiona Hall to name but a few. Then there are the seasoned Biennialians whom have found fame through works at previous Biennale's around the globe, artisans such as the Russian collaborative AES+F and Chinese born French artist Yan Pei Ming. With so much world famous talent descending on the city, it would be hard to resist a trip over the capitol to engage in the festivities.

Even if you aren't that much of an art lover, per-say, the uniqueness of the works combined with the wondrous selection of locations about town which they will be displayed is enticement enough. As is with all Biennales around the globe, the artists participating are asked to create pieces specifically for the event and are required to communicate the theme of the event - in this case 'Beyond Bliss' - and incorporate a communication of the venue also. Basically, their art has to express the space in which it is displayed, whether that be elements of its history, the feelings in which the artist experience when in the space or utilising parts of the structure to enhance their artistic expression.

As well as doing this, they must develop a construct that clearly speaks the language of the theme. As mentioned, the theme for Bangkok's first Biennale is 'Beyond Bliss'; a feeling of euphoria, an ideological and dream-like state of mind if you will, something almost unobtainable, yet regularly sort after. Quite fitting really for a nation known internationally as the 'Land Of Smiles'.

What makes the dynamic of the artworks created for the festival even more interesting is some of the locations chosen to host the works - locations steeped in cultural and historical significance such as Wat Pho, Wat Arun and The Mandarin Oriental Hotel. In all, there are 20 locations around the city to enjoy the display of the artwork during the four months and so much to cover that the meanderings of my fingers on these keys just couldn't even manage to cover in such a brief introduction. So, with that said, over the coming weeks, I'll be attempting to give you an update on the magic lined up for this exciting period in the city of Bangkok's history.

But if you can't wait till my next splatter of words, then check out the social media (links below), as regular updates, artist biographies, events, exhibits and so much more is consistently posted to help you get more familiar with, well, just about everything the event has to offer. The website, however, goes into even greater depths and lends you insightful tips on the best places to enhance your experience during the event, such as tasty restaurants, relaxing coffee shops, grand hotels and travelers rests and just about anything you could need to make your trip to Bangkok's first ever Biennale an enjoyable experience.

Thai Marriage Registration

Marriage Registration : Registering your marriage in Thailand

Thailand is considered by many to be the lovers' paradise of Asia and continuously welcomes many foreigners and also love couples from all over Asia and around the world. There are endless romantic opportunities when it comes to honeymoon destinations and also wedding ceremonies in the world but Thailand is a well known destination for wedding locations and its scenery has been a big draw for many couples wishing to get married.

Note that once your marriage in Thailand has been registered with the local Amphur in Thailand the marriage will now be lawfully recognized both locally and internationally. Note that before you register your marriage in Thailand you are always advised to consider a prenuptial agreement before the registration process.

** Requirements for Thai Marriage Registration

Before proceeding to 'the Amphur' to register your marriage, the following documents must be prepared to register your marriage in Thailand.

1. Copy of Identity Document

- For Thais: ID card and Household Registration Certificate ("tabian baan")
- For Foreigners: Passport together with arrival card.

2. Certificate of freedom to marry from the Embassy

The certificate of no-impediment or affirmation document is required by the District Office if you are wishing to marry in Thailand. This document issued by your embassy in Bangkok certifies that you are single and able to get married. Thai law makes this a requirement. Your embassy has to issue the Certificate of Freedom to Marry also known as a Certificate of no-impediment or Affirmation Certificate. The processing time and related fees will vary Embassy to Embassy. Not many of them will issue the Affirmation document on the same day as most will make it an overnight process or even a two day process. It is best to call your embassy in Bangkok first to find out the cost and duration and which documents will be needed. Once the document has been issued it still needs to be translated into Thai and certified by the Thai Ministry of Foreign Affairs. Most people simply hand their documents over to a lawyer as the process can drag on for more than a week.

3. Divorce Certificate or Death Certificate, if any:

If you or your spouse to be, have been previously married, you will need a Divorce Certificate or a Death certificate if your former spouse had died. The embassy will normally require these documents as well because without these documents they will not be able to issue you with a certificate to get married.

Email : successvisa2016@gmail.com

4. Medical Certificate

If you are getting married to a Thai woman it is required that you present a Medical Certificate from a hospital at the time of the Marriage Registration in Thailand if she was divorced or widowed within the past 310 days. This is very important in Thailand and they will not register the marriage without this medical certificate. Note that the Medical Certificate to show that she is not pregnant must be issued by a qualified doctor.

5. Name Change Certificate (for Thai)

The name change certificate has to be provided at the time of marriage registration. This is required for the Thai party to the marriage if he/she has changed his/her name before.

Thai Marriage Ceremony vs. Thai Marriage Registration

There appears to be confusion with regard to Thai law when it comes to marriage in Thailand. The actual ceremony is not needed as the marriage registration is more important. In other words you don't need to have a wedding ceremony you can start the marriage registration process without this. Even without a ceremony you can register the marriage and be issued with your marriage certificate as the wedding ceremony is not a prerequisite for the registration process in Thailand.

In Summary the Marriage Registration process in Thailand can be difficult if you do not have all the required documents or follow any of the registration formalities. What you need as a foreigner is a letter of no-impediment issued by your embassy in Bangkok. This then needs to be certified by the Thai Department of Foreign Affairs. Once you have this you need to visit the Amphur's office or District Office in Thailand to register the marriage. Once this is done they will issue you a marriage certificate. They will also provide 2 copies of this.

Even though the marriage registration is simplistic it can become very complicated and drawn out by smaller issues. To enjoy this most wonderful moment in your lives, we recommend you allow us to take care of this paperwork for you, so that you can concentrate on, and better enjoy, the other aspects of the nuptials– like planning for the Wedding Ceremony and your Honeymoon.

Alternative Investments

Alternative Investments are classed as ones that do not fit into the usual investment types such as those held on stock exchanges, mutual funds, stocks, pensions, government bonds, etc. They include things such as private equity, hedge funds, infrastructure projects, property, derivatives, commodities, forex, IPOs (Initial Public Offerings), crowd funding etc.

Most alternatives have low liquidity compared to conventional types. An example of this is that it will be a lot harder to sell a part stake in such as a Malaysian forest compared to shares in Microsoft because of the limited number of buyers. By nature Alternative Investments are usually unregulated. This means that although there are some excellent ones there are others which are highly risky. Some are outright fraud and scams. Always be wary of unsolicited calls offering fantastic returns in IPOs, fine wine, property etc. They'll provide you with glossy convincing brochures and persuasive sales talk. These are normally from people using false names working in "boiler rooms" in some far off country. You'll receive worthless ownership papers and receive updates telling you how well your investment is doing but in reality they've stolen your money. Once the complaints start coming in they disappear off the face of the earth. So be warned. Make sure you undertake homework and due diligence to find out if the opportunity is genuine.

Having found a genuine opportunity how do you value it should you wish to sell it in the future? If we take the example of the Malaysian forest again where do you go to sell it? Where do you get a valuation from? Very often there isn't one so how do you know what price to put on it? Think of the things that can go wrong with an investment. Trees can get diseases, forests can burn down, there can be illegal logging. In short look at all the angles in a worst case scenario. If you are being offered a 15% return per year, what's the catch? How long have the company been in business? What profits and losses have they made in previous years? Who are the people behind the company? Can you talk to other investors?

There are excellent alternative investments out there but you have to go in to them with your eyes fully wide open. The returns can be brilliant but the losses can be devastating, you might well end up losing everything. I cannot stress enough that it is essential that you get expert advice and undertake all the necessary checks to ensure that the opportunity is genuine. If you are new or inexperienced in saving and investing I would recommend that you stay away from this type of thing. If you are experienced and everything stacks up then by all means go for it. However I would recommend that it only forms a small part of your overall portfolio. Not more than 15% of the total amount that you have invested.

CLASS ACTION LAWSUITS IN THAILAND

Class action is a case procedure that allows a large number of people or a group of plaintiffs with the same rights deriving from the same facts and legal principle to present a complaint to the Court. The Court, therefore, passes a judgment showing the rights of the plaintiff and the members of the class.

In Ordinary Action, the interested person must join as the party in a case or interplead to be a party in the case after the Plaintiff has filed the lawsuit. The interested person must appear in the court procedure themselves or authorize a representative to appear in the court procedure, which then has corresponding expenses and complications.

On the other hand, Class action only needs the representative of the class of persons to be the Plaintiff on behalf of a large number of injured parties. Consequently, it is more convenient than the ordinary action. All the class members shall be bonded with the court judgment. In case a member does not want to be bonded with the judgment, he/she can show the intention to opt-out of the class action within the prescribed period. A person who opted-out has the right to file a separate lawsuit and pursue individual claims. Moreover, he/she cannot file a motion to intervene or join as a plaintiff in the class action.

According to the Thailand Civil Procedure Code, where there are numerous members of a class, the plaintiff, who is a member of the class, may request for a class action on the following cases:

1. Tort cases;
2. Breach of contract cases; and
3. Cases claiming various legal rights such as the law concerning the environment, the protection of consumers, labour, stocks and stock markets, trade competition.

The court may allow a case to proceed as a Class Action in the following conditions:

1. The nature of the claim and of relief applied for, as well as the allegation on which the plaintiff's claim is based and of the class with the same characteristics as the plaintiff.
2. The plaintiff has demonstrated the same unique characteristics of the class which are sufficiently clear for the class to be acknowledged.
3. The class is so numerous that it will be more complicated and impractical to conduct a case as an ordinary case.
4. To conduct the case as a class action is more just and efficient than as an ordinary case.
5. The plaintiff has demonstrated that he is a member of a class with the characteristics, interests, including the acquisition of the right to be a member of the class as prescribed by the President of the Supreme Court, if any; and the plaintiff, including the counsel is able to conduct the case justly and sufficiently protecting the rights of the class.
6. The lawyer must have enough capability to protect the rights of all the members of the class.

Cryopreservation—or cryonics—describes the science and process of freezing a person's brain or body for future reanimation. If this sounds like science fiction to you, you're not entirely wrong. Here's how it works. A cryopreservation team is dispatched to monitor your state once you're close to death. As soon as you're pronounced legally dead, the team races against the clock to transport your body back to the cryonics center. There they will drain it of blood and other fluids and replace them with medical-grade anti-freeze, which will prevent destructive ice crystals from forming in your body during storage. Once your body is prepped, it's gradually cooled until it can be safely submerged into a tank of liquid nitrogen, which completely halts cell decomposition.

The preservation phase of cryopreservation is fairly straightforward, and it follows some of the same methods commonly used during organ transplants. However, the science necessary to bring a cryopreserved person back to consciousness hasn't been discovered yet, and the verdict is still out on whether it will ever be possible.

"I study the aging process and how we can manipulate it to fend off age-related diseases and improve human health," says Dr. João Pedro de Magalhães, who leads the Integrative Genomics of Ageing Group at the University of Liverpool. "I haven't signed up for cryonics because I think the chances of it working—that is, the probability of my mind being revived in the future—is very small."

While the medical community is divided on the viability of cryonics, that hasn't stopped cryonics hopefuls, such as legendary baseball player Ted Williams, from undergoing the procedure. Because if it works, it'll be like a scene out of "Star Trek" or, if you prefer, "Austin Powers." If it doesn't, well then there's nothing to lose—except a good deal of money.

The world's most expensive brain freeze

The Alcor Life Extension Foundation is one of several cryonics companies across the world. To have your brain preserved by Alcor, you'll need to pay a minimum of $80,000 in addition to annual membership dues up until the point you're legally pronounced dead. If you want your entire body preserved, the fees start at $200,000.

"I am a single dad with two young daughters," de Magalhães says. "Given the very low chance of success of cryonics, I don't think spending that amount of money at this stage in my life would be a wise decision."

Where life insurance comes into play

To make cryopreservation accessible to people of varied income levels, many cryonics companies accept life insurance policies as a form of guaranteed income. For example, Alcor encourages clients to designate the foundation as the beneficiary of their life insurance policies, so the clients' procedures will be funded at their death.

If you're considering this, you should carefully consider the implications of this act before purchasing or signing over your policy. First, whole life insurance policies aren't cheap. Because they guarantee coverage up until death, they can cost up to 10 times more than their term-life counterparts. This cost would be added on to the annual fee you'll already owe for your cryonics membership.

Second, the fine print of designating a cryonics company as the beneficiary of your life insurance policy is that your family won't be legally entitled to one cent of that payout. If you still owe money on your home or car, or if you carry credit card debt you need to make sure your loved ones can cover these debts and cope with the loss of your income before changing the beneficiary of your policy.

"If I were a billionaire, I would sign up for cryonics," de Magalhães says. "Alternatively, and arguably much more likely than I becoming a billionaire, I would like to see some progress in improving cryopreservation technologies and some evidence that they could work in larger human organs like the brain. ... As for the chances of currently cryopreserved individuals being reanimated one day, I think it's very unlikely but it's not impossible."

Is the world going crazy or is it just me?

Pattaya police to get tough on tourist vehicle rentals.

From now on Pattaya police have said that any tourist caught driving a rental vehicle without a licence will be fined up to 1000 baht. Also that the vehicle in question will be confiscated and the company that has rented said vehicle must pay another fine of up to 2000 baht when they go to collect it.

Police Major Arut Saphanon said that the reason for the change is because many tourists don't know the highway code and have not had any training which leads to accidents. Also that foreigners who commit crimes in Pattaya have been seen fleeing the scene of the crime in rented vehicles.

Tourists now need to produce an international licence, their home country driving licence and a passport when renting. They also need to carry these document to show the police if stopped - failure to do so will result in the vehicle being taken away. Expats can take their home country licence and a certified copy from their consulate or embassy in Thailand to the Department of Land Transport and get a Thai licence.

DENGUE FEVER ALERT

This year in Thailand more than 136,000 cases of dengue fever have been confirmed. In fact Sophon Mekthon, Deputy Director-General at the Ministry of Public Health recently announced “We are experiencing the highest number of cases in over 20 years,” Much of this is being attributed to the unseasonably wet and warm weather.

Dengue is transmitted by the bite of an Aedes mosquito infected with any one of the four types of dengue virus. Symptoms typically range from a mild to a high fever with severe headaches, muscle pain and rash. Deputy Director Sophon further advised “There is a misconception that dengue is a jungle disease but, actually it is more prevalent in heavily populated areas. Rapid urbanisation in Thailand and a change in weather patterns have contributed to the alarming spike in cases,”

Dengue is also difficult to recognize because the early symptoms of fever, headache, body aches are not specific. However between 3 to 7 days after the first symptoms difficult breathing, mucosal bleeding, severe abdominal pain and persistent vomiting can follow.

There is no specific treatment for dengue but early detection and access to proper medical care are crucial so if in doubt go straight to your nearest hospital to get checked.
